The Question of Annexation to the United States Discussed in Canada's Parliament.

Wilfred Laurier, the Liberal Leader, Says the Colonial Citizen's Position is Humiliating.

Protest Against the Discrimination Practiced by the Newfoundland People Against Canada.

OTTAWA, Ont., April 8.—In the house of commons last evening Hon. David Mills said it was time, if the house had any respect for itself, that some action be taken in regard to reciprocity. He would ask the house to declare that the time had come when a commercial treaty with the United States favorable to Canada should be negotiated by the representatives of the crown for the official acts and for whom the ministers were responsible to the house of commons.

Hon. George Foster, minister of finance, replied denouncing the action of the house as being simply a display of disloyalty and accusing every supporter thereof, and especially Hon. Wilfred Laurier, leader of the opposition, with being an annexationist.

Wilfred Laurier in reply said: George Foster forgot that Canada was growing and that nations grow as men grow. Canada could not remain a colony forever. He did not suggest separation from the mother country at present. The position of the colonial citizen was humiliating. Years ago Canada copied the American tariff and framed her laws on the American principles and they were made by her. He was not an annexationist. The highest goal of his political aim was to see Canada an independent nation among nations.

The supplementary papers regarding the negotiations respecting the fisheries on the Atlantic coast now in progress between Newfoundland and the United States, transmitted to the house of commons last night, caused much discussion there were negotiations under progress between the ancient colony and the American government, of which the Canadian public knew nothing. The report shows that American fishermen were excluded by Newfoundland to fish within the three-mile limit, from which they are permitted under the convention of 1818. Lord Stanley's attention is called to the fact that Newfoundland imposes a license fee upon Canadian fishing vessels for the privilege of purchasing bait supplies. Against this treatment, which placed her on a footing with foreign nations, Canada remonstrated without success.

Appended to the report is a protest from the Canadian authorities addressed to Lord Stanley, in which they draw the attention to the fact which appeared at the recent conference with Blaine at Washington, that tariff discrimination against Great Britain was not a point at which negotiations for more extended trade arrangements between the United States and Canada broke off. This being in accordance with instruction of her majesty's government, they can not suppose her majesty's government will prove a convention by which the United States and Newfoundland will discriminate against Canada as the United States and Newfoundland convention enables either or both to do.

TRAGIC EVENT IN POLAND.

Anarchists Wound a Prominent Man and Are Tracked and Killed.

BERLIN, April 8.—A dispatch from Inowrazelaw, an important town in Prussian Poland, tells of a tragic event in that province, which indicates that the anarchists are thoroughly organized in attacks upon the established order of things. One of the leading residents in the vicinity of Inowrazelaw is Deacon Von Poninski, who lives at Kosielec and is an influential supporter of the government and an enemy of radicalism.

During the night four men, dressed in respectable attire and their features concealed by masks, entered the residence of Deacon Von Poninski. The deacon was in his study and was alone. He was aroused by the entrance and sat up terror-stricken. His wife also was aroused and was about to cry for help, when one of the men told her sternly to be silent if she wished to save her life. Before the deacon could speak the three men leveled their weapons at him and fired. The shots took effect, inflicting dangerous wounds. His wife was not hurt. Poninski sank back in the bed, the blood starting from his wounds. The assassins, apparently satisfied that they had killed their victim, turned and hurried away.

The authorities and people determined to hunt down the would-be murderers and an expedition was immediately organized in which all the able-bodied men of Kosielec joined. The assassins were tracked to a forest, and their trail was followed for a long distance. As the pursuers came close to the pursued, the former threw out skirmishers right and left, so as to prevent the escape of the outlaws. Then they closed in on them and a demand was made for their surrender. The outlaws uttered cries of defiance, and the pursuers prepared for a charge. As the attacking party rushed forward the outlaws fired, but without effect, while a fusillade from the assassins laid two of the assassins dead. The remaining two did not wait for capture. Turning their weapons on themselves they shot themselves fatally and died almost instantly.

Quitting Horse Thieves. HELINA, Mont., April 8.—The first results of the war looking to the extermination of horse thieves in Eastern Montana and Wyoming came to light yesterday, when the body of a man was found on Alkali creek about ten miles from Billings. He had been shot through the head and had been dead several days. The man has not been identified, but is supposed to be a Wyoming rustler, on route to Canada.

Matthews for Governor. FORT WAYNE, Ind., April 8.—The Evening Sentinel, the leading Democratic paper in Northern Indiana, will today announce, upon the authority of a close political friend of Hon. Claude Matthews, the present secretary of state, that the latter gentleman will positively be a candidate for governor before the coming Democratic state convention.

HERE'S A QUEER DEAL.

A Combine to Carry Louisiana for the Republicans.

NEW ORLEANS, April 8.—Rumors have been current for several days, and generally believed, that the McEnery people, the lottery and the Leonard wing of the Republican party have formed a combination to elect Leonard, his wing to deliver a Republican delegation for Harrison at the Minneapolis convention and the lottery to provide $500,000 for the state campaign and a handsome donation to carry this state in the Harrison campaign.

The rumor is confirmed by the admission of a prominent lottery stockholder that such a combination has been made, the money provided and the messenger dispatched. Some of the ward bosses admit McEnery is being run simply to help their city ticket and with no hope of election.

BLAINE NOT A CANDIDATE.

Senator Hale Says He Sticks to His Letter.

NEW YORK, April 8.—A Washington special to the Recorder says: Senator Hale, in an interview yesterday regarding the stories which have been assiduously circulated the past week with reference to Mr. Blaine's supposed willingness to accept the nomination for the presidency, said: "I do not speak for Mr. Blaine, because I have no authority to do so, but I know the stand he takes as he did when he was elected. He has not reconsidered his determination to decline any nomination of any intention to reconsider it."

WITH SHEARS AND KNIVES.

Fatal Result of a Quarrel Between Two Arkansas Men.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., April 8.—Yesterday afternoon Ring Mayberry and George Simmons, two powerful men, quarreled on the streets of this city. Simmons was armed with a pair of sheep shears, and his antagonist had a large knife. Both men repeatedly plunged the weapons into each other's bodies. Before the men could be separated, Mayberry was fatally wounded and Simmons received injuries which may result in death.

McKINLEY IS HAPPY.

COLUMBUS, O., April 8.—In an interview Governor McKinley said that the result in Rhode Island was very gratifying to him. "The issue in Rhode Island," he said, "was purely protection and I am happy over the result, not only because of the approval of the people, and because I took part in the campaign, but because Senator Aldrich, who came before the people again for reelection, has been endorsed, had charge of the tariff bill in the senate and secured its passage in that body."

VALPARAISO.

VALPARAISO, April 8.—Judge of Crime Foster, who conducted the investigation of the assault upon members of the United States steamer Baltimore, was promoted to the court of appeals at a meeting yesterday of the council of state. Judge Foster had been appointed to the conservative party and three from the Liberal ranks. This proves the desire of the present cabinet to act fairly in the distribution of offices.

Incendiary Anarchists.

VIENNA, April 8.—Great excitement was caused this morning by another incendiary fire. A man on the Ringstrasse was reported to be in flames, and when the police and firemen hastened to the place, they found evidence that the fire was the work of anarchists. The flames had already got considerable headway, but firemen succeeded by extraordinary exertion in preventing the spread of what had threatened to be a serious conflagration.

Twenty-Five Rounds Fought.

HAMILTON, O., April 8.—Yesterday forenoon at 11:30, Jack Docherty, of Philadelphia, and Jack Bennett, of Canada, met at Brownsville, Ind., and in the presence of 300 or 400 spectators fought twenty-five rounds. Bennett went down in the fourth round and was unable to rise. The fight was the work of the allied ten seconds.

A City in Darkness.

PINE BLUFF, Ark., April 8.—This city was in utter darkness last night, the Pine Water and Light company having shut off the city's light and water supply, owing to the failure of the city to pay anything to the company for the last twelve months service. The city owes the company about $100,000 and refuses payment, as the service, it is claimed, was inefficient.

A Denial Repeated.

BERLIN, April 8.—The North German Gazette repeats the denial that Germany is seeking to enter into a commercial agreement with Russia. This is regarded as a serious matter, and the German government does not wish it to be supposed that it is inclined to extend to Russia the commercial privileges enjoyed by Austria.

Appraiser Dismissed.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—The President has dismissed from office C. M. Leavy, appraiser at San Francisco, for complicity in custom house frauds. The extent of the frauds practiced on the government is not known, but they are believed to be extensive.

A Quintuple Murder.

MONTVIDEO, April 8.—Near Guadalupe, Uruguay, an Italian named Traversi, his wife and three children were found murdered in their home yesterday. Robbery was the motive of the terrible crime.

A Liberal Re-elected.

ST. JOHN, N. B., April 8.—At 10 o'clock last night the returns of the election for the Dominion parliament, to fill the vacancy caused by the unseating of Dr. Colter, Liberal, of Carleton county, indicated that Colter had at least 350 majority.

Killed by a Train.

WOONSOCKET, R. I., April 8.—Irving Howe, aged 35, an Italian named Traversi, his wife and three children were found murdered in their home yesterday. Robbery was the motive of the terrible crime.

All for Cleveland.

TOPEKA, Kan., April 8.—Up to date nearly half of the 100 counties in Kansas have held their Democratic conventions to send delegates to the state convention at Salina April 20. Every county so far has sent a delegate to the convention. The delegates are expected to vote for Cleveland.

THE WATER WORKS

Important Decision By the Supreme Court Regarding Duluth's Gas and Water Franchise.

The Village Had No Power to Grant an Exclusive Franchise and Disable Itself.

According to This Decision, the City Can Establish Its Own Water System.

ST. PAUL, April 8.—[Special to The Herald.]—A very important decision was rendered today by Judge Dickinson, of the supreme court, which defines the extent of the powers of a municipal corporation to grant an exclusive franchise to a private corporation. In 1883 the village of Duluth made a contract with the Duluth Gas and Water company to supply the village with water and gas for a term of thirty years. The village agreed to provide for water works does not make the same rights for thirty years. Another provision of contract set forth that the village should likewise abstain from laying gas pipes or supplying gas on its own behalf. Louis H. Grieser, a publisher and plaintiff appellant in a case, claimed that this clause also related to the water supply, and that the city had no right to establish a system of water works. The question that was at issue was: Had the village or city power to grant an exclusive franchise and thus disable itself?

Judge Dickinson holds that legislative authority to a municipal corporation to provide for water works does not make the power to grant an exclusive franchise so as to disable the city for a period of thirty years from itself establishing a system of water works.

A DOZEN WERE INJURED.

Serious Collision Between an Express and a Freight Train.

MOUNT VERNON, O., April 8.—One of the most serious wrecks that has occurred on the Cleveland, Akron & Columbus railroad for several years happened yesterday afternoon about twenty miles east of here, at a point called the Summit, a very steep grade. Freight train No. 24, going west, was assisted by a pusher and the freightman on the Summit had orders to hold No. 3 express, going east, until No. 24 passed. This he failed to do, resulting in a collision between the two trains. A dozen or more persons were more or less injured.

The most seriously hurt are as follows: T. B. Reed, engineer of No. 3, right foot sprained by jumping; Mrs. Jonathan Reed, his wife, severely injured to left arm and back wrenched, thought to be internally injured; Mrs. W. L. Reed, his wife, severely injured to back and arm badly bruised and wrenched; J. W. Reed, his son, severely injured to head and left cheek; S. L. Nearing of Danville, left leg badly bruised and wrenched. About a dozen box cars in the freight train were smashed, and over five hours were required to clear the track.

FOR A COALING STATION.

Arrangements With Argentina For a Coal and Provision Depot.

LOSON, April 8.—A dispatch from Buenos Ayres to the Times says that the American minister, John J. Pitkin, and Admiral Walker, commander of the American squadron in South American waters, are in daily conference with the Argentine government, and that it appears that a secret arrangement has been entered into whereby the republic of Argentina guarantees the provision of a coal and provision depot for the United States navy.

The report at Libertad ostensibly used for storing commercial goods of an inflammable character will, it is understood, be considered suitable, provided the Argentine government will rescind the present lease. Admiral Walker induced President Alvear to entertain the proposition with the view of making a naval depot at the mouth of the Rio Plata.

STEPPED ON HIS CORNS.

Duncan B. Harrison Fined For Kicking an Illinois Man.

CLINTON, Ill., April 8.—Duncan B. Harrison, of Illinois, who was arrested at Clinton yesterday and fined $33 for assaulting W. H. Kelly, a Clinton man, who crowded him to the train to Sullivan. Kelly fell into Harrison's lap and stepped on his corns. Hot words followed and Kelly struck Harrison, who kicked him out of the car. It was with difficulty that Sullivan and Jack Ashton were prevented from clearing out the depot crowd.

No Room in the Abbey.

LOSON, April 8.—James Russell Lowell is not to have a monument in Westminster Abbey. Owing to the contumacious and unoccupied space in the abbey, the dean of Westminster has reluctantly declined to find room in the abbey for the proposed monument, and has suggested that instead of a monument a window in the chapter house, the scene of the delivery of some of Mr. Lowell's addresses, might be filled with a stained glass memorial.

School Building Burned.

DES MOINES, Iowa, April 8.—At 10:45 this morning the Crocker school building took fire from a stove upsetting. The alarm was given but the teachers kept cool and marched the children all safely. The fire department soon arrived but the water pressure was weak and they could not throw to the roof. The main portion of the building was destroyed. Loss $20,000.

Quay a Delegate.

PHILADELPHIA, April 8.—Senator Quay was elected a delegate yesterday to the national convention at the Beaver county Republican primaries.

Bradley's Successor.

LANCASTER, April 8.—It is said that President Harrison has decided to nominate J. Hay Brown, of this city, to succeed the late Justice Bradley in the supreme court. Mr. Brown is a law partner of Attorney General Hensel, of Pennsylvania.

MASSACHUSETTS DEMOCRATS.

Their State Convention Held Today—Chairman Avery's Speech.

BOSTON, April 8.—The Democratic state convention for the choice of four delegates to the national convention at Chicago, met in Tremont temple this forenoon. The delegates were very slow in getting together, but by no means so slow as were the officers in making their appearance, and it was not until 11:45 that the convention got down to business. While awaiting the arrival of the leaders the rank and file exhibited commendable patience. Gen. Collins was warmly applauded upon entering the hall. Three different tickets were distributed through the hall. One bore the names of Patrick A. Collins of Boston, John W. Corcoran of Clinton, Albert C. Houghton of North Adams and John E. Russell of Leicester. Another had the names of Patrick A. Collins, John W. Cummings of Fall River, Alpheus H. Alger of Cambridge and Walter Cutting of Hillsburg, and on the third were the names of John W. Corcoran of Clinton, Messrs. Houghton, Cummings and Russell.

The convention was called to order by Secretary Buckley of the Democratic committee. On motion of Mr. Charles S. Hantlin, the chairman and secretary of the state committee were made temporary officers of the convention. The committee on credentials reported that 231 towns and twenty-eight cities were represented by 103 delegates. Hon. Edward Avery, of Braintree, was unanimously chosen as permanent chairman and he was escorted to the platform by John F. O'Brien, of Cambridge and Frank J. Pratt, of Greenfield. Mr. Buckley was made permanent secretary. Mr. Avery proceeded at once to the delivery of his address. He said: "We are thankful that the danger of the passage of a free silver coinage act seems for the present to be averted. We are equally opposed to the existing law and the proposed law. Unless the vast resources of our country and the demands of our trade set at defiance the experience of the past, both are full of danger. The business men of the country should not forget that if, as many skillful financiers believe, we are fast approaching a silver basis with all its attendant mischiefs, the Republican party is to be held responsible. The national Democratic party is for honest money, a currency of gold and silver every dollar of which shall be of equal intrinsic value all over the world. Until this policy is modified by another national convention, no man or set of men, in congress or out of congress, can afford to ignore the danger to the country. The Republican party, in its platform and the consistent provisions of the act of 1876, is committed to the opposite policy. Judging from the past, this subject can be safely left to the sober judgment of the next Democratic national convention."

"Four years ago we raised the standard of tariff reform. Again we take up the standard of the many against the few, and we say to those who know they were deceived four years ago, join with us and secure, under a Democratic administration, a just and equitable tariff, adapted to the wants and protecting the interest of the whole people. The present administration, with its futile efforts to maintain its power through the odious machinery of the tariff, is a dangerous silver legislation, its onerous tariff act, its unprecedented expenditures, its return to the spoils system, its departmental scandals, presents to the most casual observer a painful contrast to the last Democratic administration which, for dignity, intelligent economy, conscientious devotion to the interests of the whole country and freedom from any act that should cause a friend to blush or an enemy to condemn, is unsurpassed in the history of the country."

"The next duty will be the selection of a candidate. I believe the candidate should be as strong as the platform—strong as the platform should be. I have open support rather than insure success by discreet silence. I believe that our candidate should be a man of tried, honest, broad and comprehensive patriotism and undoubted courage, cool in action, deliberate in judgment and ready and witty under any circumstance, and at all hazards to do what he believes to be right. To such a man the destinies of a great cause can be safely entrusted, to such a man I doubt not the delegates from Massachusetts will give their united votes and such a man I believe the Democratic party will elect as the next president of the United States."

The platform adopted by the convention declares that the best interest of the party and of the country, demand the nomination and election of Cleveland as president, but it does not specifically pledge the delegates.

The Answer to Canada.

LONDON, April 8.—In the house of commons today, Col. Vincent, the fair trade member for Sheffield, asked the government what reply had been sent to the petition from Canada for the abrogation of certain clauses in the Canadian trade treaty, contained in British treaties with a certain foreign country. Mr. Chamberlain, parliamentary secretary for the foreign office, said that it would not be proper to publish the reply before Canada received it.

THE DISTRICT COURT.

Joseph Hort Pleads Not Guilty to the Charges Brought Against Him.

Wm. Craig, Manager of the Gas & Water Company, Arraigned Before Judge Ensign this Afternoon.

Judge Searle Hears the Cases of the Special Term—Regular Calendar Work.

Before Judge Ensign this morning the regular work of the district court term was continued while the special term was taken by Judge Searle. The special calendar was very light. The case of T. B. Hawkes vs the Car Service association was taken up but not concluded as the special term was adjourned at noon.

Judge Searle will come up some day next week and will conclude the hearing of the case. His cases on the regular calendar will be taken by Judge Brown who will arrive on Monday. Before Judge Ensign Joseph Hort was called in this morning and entered a plea of not guilty to both of the charges brought against him by the grand jury. West and Pollock, arrested for selling liquor on the Mesaba without proper license, have also entered pleas of not guilty. This afternoon General Manager Craig, of the gas and water company, was arraigned before Judge Ensign, as the representative of a company maintaining a public nuisance. He also entered a plea of not guilty and will have a hearing next week. In the case of W. P. Heinbach vs Wm. St. Armour, the jury returned a verdict for $21.04 for the plaintiff. In the Courtland Wagon company vs. Paul Sharvy, the judge instructed the jury to find for the plaintiff and they fixed the amount of damages at $753.82. Briti Hanson vs. John Hendrickson, a sensational suit for damages, the details of which have already been published, was then taken up and is now on trial. It will probably not be concluded this afternoon. The jury cases are expected to occupy the time of the court next week until about Wednesday, when the criminal calendar will be taken up.

Court Notes.

Referee West has filed his report in the case of Phillips and Buell vs. The Tribune Printing company. It is in favor of the plaintiffs.

Judge Searle left this afternoon for his home at St. Cloud.

Humane Henry Haskins, who recently spent several days on the range, is the witness depended on by the prosecution to make out a case against the Mesaba men, arrested for an alleged "blind pig" business.

In the matter of the assignment of M. A. Phillips, an agreement has been reached with all the creditors, and an order was made this morning restoring the property.

"Haunted Houses, Etc.

"Haunted Houses, Spirit Visions, Prophecies and Dreams" will be the comprehensive subjects treated upon by Dr. Henry Slade, the most noted test and scribe-writing medium in the world, at Odd Fellow's hall on Sunday at 7:30 p. m. sharp.

Now, for instance, man is more competent than Dr. Slade to explain the philosophy of those wonderful phenomena above mentioned. That we all dream is a universally recognized fact. That there are persons who can foretell coming events with great precision; that spirit visions do appear and that so-called haunted houses do exist, will hardly be denied by any intelligent person who has candidly investigated any of these phenomena.

Now, if these things are really true, they are not only of great practical importance, but of great importance to the cause of dreams, but have any of those explanations been satisfactory? Can you, after all your reading, tell what a dream consists of and how it is produced? Can you, by the study of any of the philosophical test books in our schools or colleges, give an intelligent explanation of any of the other phenomena above mentioned, which, in the opinion of multitudes of the most intelligent men and women in the world, actually do exist or occur?

You would not you be willing to pay twenty-five cents for a rational and lucid explanation of all these phenomena? If so, don't fail to hear Dr. Slade's intensely interesting lecture at Odd Fellow's hall, Sunday evening at 7:30.

WEST DULUTH.

West Duluth office of The Herald, room 2, 814, 1st building, where announcements, etc., may be left.

John Youngmark was sent up for twelve days from police court this morning for being drunk.

The village has lost a horse, harness and buggy in the shuffle of the two administrations and the village attorney is now hunting for the same. The outfit was purchased for the use of the city engineer by the Martin council and while the horse is not valuable as a trotter, it can be made use of by the present administration.

The old landmark, the store building built by the West Duluth Land company, and one of the first buildings in the town, is being remodeled and will be much improved in appearance by the addition of a plate glass front.

C. J. Birch, of this place, leaves in a day or two for Merritt, where he will open a branch store.

THE BOARD OF TRADE.

A Very Active and Widely Fluctuating Market Today.

The wheat market here today was very active and widely fluctuating. There was an immense amount of trading in May wheat, and the reported transactions amounted to 2,000,000 bushels, but considerably more changed hands privately. There were large buying orders which, with strong and excited cables, caused a strong opening at 84c advance on the first sales of May No. 1 northern. The opening was too high, however, and with free selling there came a break of 1/4c on the next trade. Prices fluctuated frequently between 82c and 84 1/2c, and the feeling was nervous and at times panicky. There was little trading outside of the May future. The fluctuations continued to the close, which was from 1 1/4c to 1 1/2c below the closing figures yesterday.

Following were the closing prices: No. 1 hard—Cash, 82 1/2c; April, 81 1/2c; May, 84c; June, 85 1/2c; July, 86c. No. 1 northern—Cash, 81c; April, 79 1/2c; May, 82c; June, 83c; July, 84c. No. 2 northern—Cash, 79c; No. 3, 77c; rejected, 60c. On track—No. 1 hard, 83c; No. 1 northern, 81 1/2c.

Car inspection for today—No. 1 hard wheat, 25; No. 1 northern, 116; No. 2 northern, 15; no grade, 17; total, 1,725.

Receipts—Wheat, 246,000 bus. Shipments—Wheat, 490 bus. Cars on track—Northern Pacific, none; Great Northern, 176; Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha, 1; St. Paul & Duluth, 4; total, 181; last year, 75.

Outside Markets.

CHICAGO, April 9.—The close: Wheat, May, 83c; July, 83 1/2c. Corn: May, 24 1/2c; July, 25c. Oats: May, 20 1/2c; July, 21 1/2c. Pork: May, $10.17 1/2c; 2c.

NEW YORK, April 9.—Wheat: April closed 79 1/2c; May opened 81 1/2c, and closed at 79 1/2c; July opened at 84 1/2c and closed 81 1/2c. On track: No. 1 hard 83c; No. 1 northern, 81 1/2c; No. 2 northern, 79 1/2c.

ST. PAUL, April 9.—Charles Whalen, the murderer of young Spaulding, was much better today, and with an escort of police was carried to the depot on a stretcher. The sheriff left with his prisoner for Portage on the 2:45 p. m. train.

FOR THE HOME CIRCLE.

Two Disagreeable Extremes that are Too Frequently Encountered in All the Cities.

Ostentation and Boasting that Accompany Wealth and the Persistent Plea of Poverty.

Fifty Bestowed Upon Poor Rich Men Who Live Barrenly in Great Bookless Houses.

It is difficult to tell which is most unpleasant, the offensive ostentation and boasting that sometimes accompany wealth, or the persistent plea of poverty that is frequently attendant upon lack of money, says a writer in the Chicago Inter-Ocean. The rich man or woman, vain of material possessions, frequently serves, as a cynic once observed, "to advertise vulgarly." Without taste or culture, all that is purchased or acquired must have, first and foremost a monetary value. A picture which represents a lot of dollars, books that have costly bindings, a bit of Sevres or Dresden worth its weight in gold, is valuable for that quality—and for that quality alone. Its real beauty, its highest merit that it never sees and the sordid soul cannot comprehend. These people, unfortunately so everywhere, where, madame in silk and velvet which she will tell you cost so many dollars a yard, and her better half the most disagreeable type of the self-made man. They have the most expensive suit of apartments at the hotel; they pervade the place, and wherever they are and whatever they do, the impression that they make is of defiant expansiveness and irrepressible self-assertiveness. They stare, snarl, talk loud and make intolerable for well-bred, quiet folk who are unfortunately thrown into their company.

The other extreme is almost as bad. Complaining and querulous poverty that persists in bewailing its lot, in pointing out the patch upon the elbow, and keeping its ill luck forever in the foreground. Now, every one knows who has experienced it, poverty is exceedingly inconvenient, but it is not a woe which ought to ask the sympathy or crave the charity of the outside world. There is patience and in its trials there is heroism in the endurance when these cheerfulness may be added.

Sidney Smith gives as his ideal of manly heroism the uncomplicated patience of a lad who was sent to sea, the son of an English curate. At great sacrifice he had been fitted out, and furnished with £50 in money. By a mischance he lost his chest, and his possessions, deprived himself of the companionship of lads of his own class and rigidly economized until, in three long years he had made good the loss. One can not imagine such a manly fellow whining over his misfortune, or bewailing his hard lot; he accepted the situation like a philosopher.

Singularly enough, the complainants of this sort are rarely ever distressingly poverty-stricken. They usually have enough to eat, enough to wear, shelter, warmth, and enough to read—which, after all, constitute the common comforts of life. They know nothing whatever of that real deprivation which might condone complaint and justify discontent.

Perhaps a taste of the real thing might work a cure, for there have been instances where extreme poverty furnished examples of patience and contentment that might serve as a model for humanity.

BOOKS IN THE HOME.

There is Nothing That So Beautifully Furnishes a Home.

We form judgments of men from little things about their houses, of which the owner, perhaps, never thinks. In earlier years when traveling in the West, where taverns were scarce and in some places unknown, and every settler's house was a house of entertainment, it was a matter of some importance and some experience to select wisely where you should put up. And we always looked for flowers. If there were no trees for shade, no patch of flower in the yard we were suspicious of the place. But no matter how rude the cabin or rough the surroundings, if we saw that the window held a trough for flowers and some vines twined about strings let down from the eaves, we were confident that there was some taste and carefulness in the log cabin.

In a new country, where people have to tug for a living, no one will take the trouble to rear flowers unless the love of them is pretty strong; and this taste, blossoming out of plain and uncultivated people is itself a clump of haresbells growing out of the seams of a rock. We were seldom misled. A patch of flowers came to signify kind people, clean beds, and good bread. But in other states of society other signs are more significant. Flowers about a rich man's house may signify only that he has a good gardener, or that he has refined neighbors and does what he sees them do. But men are not accustomed to buy books, unless they want them. If on visiting the dwelling of a man in slender means we find that he contents himself with cheap carpets and very plain furniture in order that he may purchase books, he rises at once in our esteem. Books are not made for furniture, but there is nothing else that so beautifully furnishes a house.

The plainest row of books that cloth or paper ever covered is more significant of refinement than the most elaborately carved etagere or sideboard. Give us books furnished with books rather than furniture. Both, if you can, but books at any rate. To spend several days in a friend's house, and hunger for something to read, while you are treading on costly carpets and sitting on luxurious chairs and sleeping upon down, is as if one were bringing your body for the sake of cheating your mind. It is not pleasurable to see a man growing rich, augmenting the comforts of home, and lavishing money on ostentatious upholstery, upon the table, upon everything but what the soul needs? We know of many and many a rich man's house where it would not be safe to ask for the commonest English classics.

No poets, no essayists, no historians, no travels, no biographies, no select fiction, no curious legendary lore. But the wall paper cost $3 a roll, and the carpet cost $4 a yard! Books are the windows through which the soul looks out. A home without books is like a room without windows. No man has a right to bring up his children without surrounding them with books, if he has the means to buy them. It is a wrong to his family, he cheats them. Children learn to read by being in the presence of books. The knowledge in a young mind is almost a warrant against the interior excitement of passions and vices. Let us pity these poor rich men who live barrenly in great bookless houses.

Gossip About the Latest Productions in the Literary World.

"The Siwash Maid" is the title of "an Indian idyll with a dramatic ending" which Therese M. Robertson contributes to the Argonaut of March 28. It is a half-rambling, half-pastoral little story of life among the Indians of the Puget Sound country, the principal personages being a "squaw-maid"—an Irishman who has married an Indian woman—his kiootchman (or wife), and their pretty and self-willed daughter. The description of travel by train in that beautiful country is very graphic and the little story in this setting is a gem.

Mrs. Gladstone, the wife of the famous British statesman, in the first of her articles, "Hints From a Mother's Life," gives much valuable advice in the April Ladies' Home Journal, which comes promptly to its hundreds of thousands of readers in a dainty Easter cover of pink. The Journal's sixteen editors fill their departments with all that is instructive and attractive, and the entire magazine is a thing of beauty and excellence. This Easter number, with new cover, new features, admirable illustrations and an attractive supplement, is worth many times its moderate price of ten cents. The Ladies' Home Journal is published by the Curtis Publishing company of Philadelphia for ten cents per number and $1 per year.

The Forum for April gives the position of emphasis to a discussion of "The Crisis of the Democratic Party," a group of three articles, by Congressman William L. Wilson, of West Virginia, who lays down a line of campaign for the presidential election; by Frederic R. Coudert, the leader of the anti-Hill Democrats in New York, who explains the reasons for the election returns had fairly shown it to be Republican.

"Prisons of Air," by Moncure D. Conway, is a carefully prepared and interesting work of 279 pages. Mr. Conway's patience and careful study on matters pertaining to the early history of the country is admirably illustrated in his artistic commingling of the plot of his story with historical facts, pertaining to the finding of the old Spanish box, containing valuable papers. No brief synopsis of the story is at all satisfactory, but it is a work which one lays down with regret.

One of the handsomest books on the market today is "Gossip in a Library," by Edmund Gosse. The American edition is limited and well nigh exhausted.

In the April Review of Reviews, the department of "Leading Articles of the Month," which has a great range of topics of interest, opens with a summary of "Ten Years of Practical Electricity," illustrated by a number of portraits of distinguished electricians.

The vast importance to the commerce of all nations of the waterways which would result from deeper connections between the great lakes and the Atlantic on the east, and the Gulf of Mexico on the south, is beginning to attract widespread attention among engineers, capitalists and statesmen. The subject is outlined in a capable and entertaining manner by T. Graham Gribble, a civil engineer of distinction, in a series of papers begun in the Engineering Magazine for April.

Macmillan & Co. will issue early next week a new edition of Mr. William Winland's well known "Shakespeare's England." The little book has been revised throughout and re-written in parts. A new book by the same author is also nearly ready for publication. It deals chiefly with matters connected with the American stage during the past twenty years, and will be called "Shadows of the Stage."

Kansas Society's Beto Noir.

Atchison Globe: The embarrassing thing in society is a finger bowl. Every one who attempts to use one. The women come nearer to using them gracefully than the men, but even the women do not entirely succeed, although they assume a careless manner in washing their fingers, indicating that at home they use finger bowls every few minutes. There is a certain awkwardness about finger bowls which no one can deny. Many a man has refused to attend a party through fear of finger bowls. The next time you are out notice if all guests do not look at the particular person who is using a finger bowl as if they would say: "We have them at our house, but he doesn't have them at his house." A good many people dislike society, and it is this belief that they are afraid of company, but as a matter of fact, it is finger bowls.

The Minister Knew A Jack-Pot.

Detroit Free Press: The minister of a Western church not long ago preached a sermon on card playing, and at its close he remarked:

"Will the brethren now in the house who know how to play poker please hold up their hands?"

He waited a minute and not a hand went up.

"I am very much obliged," he said then. "But I did not think so many of you knew how."

There was a sensation in the church, but the preacher concluded the services quietly, and afterward a committee waited on him.

"We came to ask what you meant by saying that we all knew how to play poker, when in response to your inquiry, not one of us responded," said the spokesman hotly.

The preacher laughed soothingly.

"Don't let your tempers get the better of you, brethren," he replied; "any man who knows how to play poker isn't going to show his hand unless he is forced to, and you know it as well as I do."

The committee apologized and reported to the other members and the preacher's salary was raised.

COSTUMES FOR EASTER.

Dainty Creations of the Dress Makers' Imagination For the Gay Spring Season.

Some of Them Are Rich and Expensive, While Others Are of Moderate Cost.

How They Will Look, However, Depends on Form Rather Than on the Quality.

A costume that may venture into some dim-lighted church with the certainty of falling into color harmony with its stains and splendid dyes, correct in style and simple and subdued as it is, has a skirt of old rose camels' hair with a mark of old rose; a hat of black straw faced underneath with old rose, with fillet of old rose round the crown, and black tips in front; and a parasol of old rose, lined with mushroom fillings of old rose chiffon.

A gray and white mixed cheviot in chevron pattern has a fitted jacket 36 inches long, without trimming, except on its front edges an inch-wide border of black velvet, headed on the inside with narrow jet galloon, and a triangular piece of velvet, lined with cheviot, jabbed from each shoulder down to the waist line in front. The velvet border is on the skirt. Add to this a hat mingling white and black, and a black parasol covered with a full shirring of jetted net.

A rich costume is of black velvet with a beautiful Easter novelty cloth woven with colored ground of light bluish gray, covered with horizontal panels of black a half-inch or more wide, set so close to each other that but a thread of color shows between.

The slightly trained belt skirt is of the novelty, cut with the stripes diagonal, velvet set in the back and the edge bordered with velvet.

The coat of velvet reaches below the knee, and has loose fronts open over a long vest of the novelty with the stripes horizontal. The coat is bordered with an applique of black and gray passementerie. The coat sleeve has a large Louis Quinze cuff of the novelty bordered with passementerie.

This handsome novelty cloth comes in several colors, is forty-eight inches wide and $6 a yard. Worth is using it in small quantities with plain fabrics, for panels, vests, and other details. Mrs. Judge Hilton is wearing a gown of it with blue ground, made up black velvet.

A wrinkled crepon of greenish gray has a Russian blouse coat of velvet of the same color, falling apart in front over a simulated inside blouse of the crepon, itself faced round with velvet. There is a velvet belt with silver or steel buckle. The velvet sleeves turn back just below the elbow, flange like, over a long sleeve of crepon faced with velvet. The hat is a gray straw straw trimmed with an albatross bow of gray grenadine ribbon and English veils.

Light tinted ladies' cloths are very fashionable. Old rose, dull tenebrous, trope, reds, grays, creams and whites are all worn. A cream cloth princess, made with a figaro jacket and passementerie shoulder cape. The cape is gathered round the neck, reaches the bottom of the waist, and is slashed up the back to the turn-over collar. It is tied in front with long ribbons.

Such things and others fashion has devised for Easter. Some of them are rich and expensive, and it is well to remember that style depends on form rather than on quality, and the simplest cheviot, cut and finished with taste, may have an elegance impossible to an expensive costume eccentrically cut and overloaded with trimmings.

The Deah Cholly Boy.

New York Herald: She "I fully believe in the transmigration of soul and the ecstatic consummation of the mirvana." He—"Aw—yaa—might I—er—ask what you do with it?"

Truth: Goslin—"I have three tailors, doncher know, Miss Amy?"

Amy—"Ah! then you only need six more to make a man of you."

Washington Star: Cholly—"I say, Chappie, Biggens says you have insulted him. He's going to challenge you."

Chappie—"You don't say that?"

Cholly—"Yes. You have the choice of weapons you know. What will they be?"

Chappie (heroically).—"Thiggawts."

Held Captive.

[Tom Mason in Clothing and Furnisher.]

Never shall I forget the day
We rode in our together;
And I sat down, while she stood up,
And the passengers wondered whether,
Whether, as she looked down at me,
And smiled and bowed so cheerily,
I was a fool to love my seat
Or only a trifle wary.

I see her face—'twas a pretty face—
And the smile that slowly faded;
Who some woman whispered at my side,
"Well, he'd follow me to jail!"

But what could I do for her who held
A place in my memory tender?
For she was I'd take my seat, she'd I'd broken my old suspension!

"The man to suit me," said the maiden fair,
"Must be high-toned, refined,
And have, moreover, Shakespeare's hair
And Shakespeare's mind."

"That combination will be hard to find,"
A friend said then and then,
"For could a man possessing Shakespeare's Have Paderowski's hair?"

In the City.

[Life.]

In a quaint corner where Old houses front the square,
She stood in deep despair,
Holding her skirt.

Gazing with rueful eye
At a new dress, she saw Whose shoestring, gone away, Dragged the hem to the dirt.

Could she stoop, indeed so tight?
Her gloves were new and light;
I saw her helpline plaited,
And told her shoe.

She thanked me, flushed with shame, Tripped back the way she came—
"Who was she, and her name?"
I never knew.

Sad Philosophy.

"Here Goes!"

Lewiston Evening Journal: Lady Somerset assisted at the liquor spilling in Portland Wednesday afternoon. "Here goes!" she said, as her neatly gloved hands upset a brown jug the sheriff's assigned to her.

THE WOODWARD CLOTHING COMPANY

SHIRTS, COLLARS AND CUFFS SALE!

THE OPENING OF THE SPRING CAMPAIGN IS SIGNALLED BY A

Shirt, Collar & Cuff Sale

There could be no stronger evidence of the power of the "Woodward" working for the interests of the people in the markets.

HERE ARE THREE VITAL POINTS:

FIRST—

The lowest prices absolutely. When we get such advantage we pass it along to you. Never in all the retail history of this city has anyone equalled or approached this distribution of Shirts, Collars and Cuffs direct to consumers either in aggregate quantity, superior quality or cheapness. Of the three advantages the last is the most remarkable.

SECOND—

Protection in quality. Nearly all Shirt, Collar and Cuff makers produce two classes of goods. The best are for choice home trade and for the very few leading retailers with whom they are willing to deal. The inferior are for wholesale trade, and are often slightly at the expense of quality.

THIRD—

Assortment. Our orders for Shirts, Collars and Cuffs are by the hundreds of dozens.

THE NEWEST IMPROVEMENT IN SHIRTS consists of a separate and distinct piece of goods, sewed on the inner side, which reinforces the seams at the armholes and extending on the sleeves, thereby relieving the strain from the thin portion of the fabric, and effectually prevents the sleeve from breaking away at the place where it joins the yoke; gives additional strength to the armholes, and better wear to the shirt.

SAVED BY A JOKE.

"It's only a piece of fun," said Millicent. "Everybody must do something for amusement. And it is so cruelly, fiendishly dull at San Jean!"
Hugh Manton regarded her sternly. "Who was that letter to?" he asked.
"To Phyllis Perkins, the school-marm."

"Why are you corresponding with her?"

"I'm not. That letter was not from me; it was from David Belfield, the express agent—or at least so she will suppose. He wants to see her—or at least so she will think—up at the station. And she'll go to him. She's just fool enough for that. How he will stare! And how she'll long for the cracks in the railway platform to open wide enough for her to be able to slip through and vanish from his sight!"

"Her brother's eyes met in a dark frown."

"Is that your idea of fun?" said he. Millicent nodded.

"A splendid joke," said she. "Such a piece of prime perfection as that Yankee school-marm is, I haven't forgotten yet what a scornful look she gave me that night I was teasing poor little Reggy Willis at the sheet and pillow-case party."

"If David Belfield gives her another such glance when she presents herself uninvited at the station, I shall feel myself avenged."

"All is fair, you know, on the 1st of April; he's very sick, don't you understand?" she added, roughly. "He thinks he's going to die and has something to confide to her first. Oh, you may depend upon it, Hugh, she will lose no time."

"But it is after train time, Milly, she'll have to wait."

"Of course she will; that's part of the joke," added the beauty.

"Eleven miles!"

"Yes, eleven miles. But she won't mind."

"Look here, Milly," cried Manton, very angrily, "you've done a mean and cruel thing. I did not think it was in a woman to play such a contemptible trick as that."

"Oh, you're setting up to defend the Yankee school-marm, are you?" replied Millicent, defiantly. "Apparently she is the queen of all heartless school-teachers."

"I don't care a copper about Miss Perkins," said Manton, "and you know that as well as I do. But I like to see fair play. And I mean to go and tell her that all this is a malicious joke on your part."

"Go by all means," said Milly, calmly.

"But I think you'll find yourself too late."

He strode fiercely out of the sawmill, where the strong throbs of steam machinery shook the building, and busied himself among his workmen, while Milly, with a yawn, betook herself to a crumpled novel and a box of somewhat stale chocolate buns.

She had come to visit her brother at San Jean under the impression that the far Pacific coast was a very lively sort of place, with plenty of picnics, yachting parties and government officers to pass away the time.

To her amazement she discovered that San Jean was a wild and solitary nook, far from the luxuries of civilization—a Sahara in the woods.

Miss Perkins, the district school teacher, took no pains to conceal her scorn of the gay city coquette, and Millicent was dreading counting the days until she should return to Chicago.

"Sick, alone, and has something to say to me that must be said. Oh, I wonder what it can be," said Phyllis Perkins to herself, as she sped with the long, swinging stride of a true daughter of the wilderness through the flower-embellished woods.

The sun hung low on the edges of the forest when at last she ran up the rude wooden steps of the unpainted pine building, above which towered the rudely traced sign, "San Jean station."

She opened the door and went in. No one was there. The door into the ticket office was open, but the seat in front of the desk was empty.

Phyllis looked around in some perplexity.

"Mr. Belfield," she called.

The steep mountain side sent back her voice in a muffled echo. A sense of sudden terror came upon her—a blind instinct for flight. In the same instant she thought she heard a groan. Once more she looked all around.

Surely that groan had risen out of the very depths of the earth, and there, almost at her feet, was the iron ring of a trap-door leading to the cellar below.

It was the work of an instant for her to lift the door and look down into the black depths.

"Help! help!" moaned a feeble voice. And Phyllis saw lying there, in a cramped attitude, bound hand and foot, with his pallid face streaked with blood, the poor young express agent.

"Is it you, Phyllis?" he murmured. "Surely, Providence has sent you to my aid! Get a sharp knife—a sharp stone—something—and cut these cords! They are tearing their way through my flesh! And a drink of water, Phyllis, for heaven's sake!"

"And then—then you must hang out the red light—those brutes have piled rocks on the tracks just this side of the sharp curve to wreck the train! It's Tuesday night, and the paymaster is coming down from San Francisco with the money to pay off the railroad hands."

"They'll be waiting not far away for crash, but you must go on as far up the track as you can run and signal the engineer."

"And leave you?" She had been hurriedly cutting the cruel bonds with her pocket-knife, and now helped the victim to struggle to a sitting posture.

"Oh, David, you must come too. I can't leave you here to perish!"

He passed his hand vaguely across his forehead.

"You are a brave girl," said he, a spasm of agony passing over his face, and if you can be so firm I should not shrink from a little pain. Yes, I will try to walk. Don't touch my arm! I think it broken. I'm sorry that I can't carry the lantern; it's a heavy, old-fashioned thing. Now, if you'll let me lean on your shoulder!"

"But you are so pale!"

"Only from loss of blood. Go on! the safer we are. What should I have done if—"

"But, with a sudden, perplexed expression of his countenance, 'I don't think I quite understand now how you came to be here.'"

"Your letter," she said. "Didn't you write?"

"I write? Certainly not!"

She pulled the crumpled half-sheet of paper from her pocket—the letter that had sent such a joyous thrill through her heart.

"See! Will you deny your own handwriting?"

"It isn't my handwriting at all. Some one has played a joke on you—or me," he said. "But what a blessed joke, for I should have died if it hadn't been for you—for you, Phyllis!"

That night the red finger of warning pointed from the signal lantern along the track; the train slowed up before the point of danger was reached, and the evil designs of the wreckers were frustrated.

An additional man and plenty of firearms were put on at San Jean station, and an impromptu vigilance committee sent up from among the sawmill hands and a sturdy corps of lumbermen down on the river shore.

"But wasn't it strange?" said Phyllis to Mrs. Manton. "Who do you suppose wrote that letter?"

"I can tell you," said Mrs. Manton. "It was Millicent who wrote it to coax you. I was so angry when I heard it."

Phyllis blushed to the very roots of her hair.

"Yes," cried a merry, mocking voice, "it was I."

And Millie came out in her white serge dress, with the blue forget-me-nots in her belt, looking very lovely and very inappropriate to her surroundings.

"Didn't I fool you beautifully? And to think that you never suspected!"

Phyllis drew herself up with unconscious dignity.

"I could hardly suspect," said she, "that a lady could be guilty of such a trick as that. But I ought to be grateful, for I was able to save Mr. Belfield's life."

And she turned away and walked quietly home.

"There's something more to tell," said Milly, with her blue eyes glistening ominously. "She has not told me all, but I can guess it. She has not only saved his life, but she has won his heart. Well, I can't say much for his taste, that's all."

She shrugged her shoulders angrily. Hugh Manton, who had just come in, smiled grimly to himself.

"Why are you laughing?" Milly wrathfully demanded.

"Oh, for no particular cause," said Hugh. "Only it seems to me that your joke didn't work exactly as you thought it was going to!"

FASHIONS FOR MEN.

Little Change in the Shape of Clothes This Spring.

In point of shape, the clothes this spring will differ but little from those of 1891. Tailors will, of course, make such changes as may suit their individual taste, but in the main the cut of their goods will be similar to those of two years past. I would advise those men not too drowsy to have their last summer's clothes repressed, and if well cleaned they will answer the purpose of this year.

Whipcords for business suits have gone out, and their passing is mainly due to the ready-made clothing firms who made up an immense number of suits and sold them at a very small price. For rough spring wear, however, the whipcord is unexcelled. Scotch will be used almost exclusively for business purposes, while walking suits will be made with a cutaway coat, and worsted, sometimes with the smooth surface, in light grays and browns.

Of late years tailors have paid particular attention to the building of light or skeleton suits. This is absolutely necessary in very hot weather. The heavy linings used years ago are now discarded in the very first-class tailor-made clothes.

There is no change in the style of trousers.

More attention is now paid to business suits, and fashionable tailors are beginning to understand that a well-dressed man wishes to appear as well as his business associates as he does in society.

In dress coats destined for afternoon wear the cloth will be of rough-black cheviot. In length the coat shall reach about an inch below the knee.

Apparently the covert coat will be the chief outing coat for the season. It will be made very loose and cut straight in the back. Women have been wearing these covert coats for a month, and it cannot be said that they are either very artistic, or do they have a tendency to display a woman's figure.

A BRIDGE OR A TUNNEL?

The board of engineers, before whom the hearing on the proposed bridge across the Duluth ship canal was recently held at Detroit, have made an adverse report to the secretary of war. This result is not surprising. It has been expected by those who have given close attention to the matter. The government engineers have almost invariably allied themselves in support of the vessel-owners' claims that their interests are paramount to all others and that bridges across navigable streams are nuisances which should not be tolerated. Of course, such a position is unsound and unjust and is utterly indefensible, when the bridge is really not an obstruction to navigation and is demanded by the trade interests of the city, as it is in this case.

Nothing, however, can now be gained by dwelling upon the injustice of the decision. The matter, of course, must come before the secretary of war for final decision, but it is almost useless to expect that he will reverse the board's finding.
The people of Duluth must therefore face the situation as it exists. There are now but two alternatives—to build the bridge without the permission of the federal authorities, or to construct a tunnel. It is the opinion of leading lawyers that the city has full power to build a bridge across the canal, if it desires, without the permission of the war department. The title to the canal has never been accepted by the government, and its ownership is still vested in the city. Senator C. K. Davis, whose opinions are always received with great respect, concurs in this view, and he has steadily maintained that the people of Duluth have full authority to place a bridge across the canal. But would this be politic? Is it advisable to secure the hostility of the war department, when we need its aid in securing future appropriations for harbor improvements, and the piers of the canal itself imperatively demand large repairs?

There is no doubt that the best solution of uniting Minnesota Point with the mainland is found in the tunnel scheme.
The great obstacle to that scheme is its expense, the estimated cost being about $500,000. The city has not sufficient funds on hand to build a tunnel. To impose all the expense upon the property benefited would be unjust. Some of the what likewise be difficult to decide what property would be specially benefited. Of course all the property on Minnesota Point would be greatly enhanced in value, but it is likewise true that there is hardly a foot of land within the city limits that would not be benefited in some degree by the facilities thus afforded for railway terminals and the consequent increase in the city's business.

Why not make the railroads which are asking right-of-way to Minnesota Point contribute to the expense of a tunnel?
They are asking valuable rights from the city. Within a few years these rights, if granted, will be worth millions of dollars to the companies. The Red Lake Falls road wants right-of-way along South street, St. Croix avenue and St.
Louis avenue. It wants the common company to donate this right of way. The newly-formed terminal company has presented an ordinance to the council which would give it authority to lay a perfect network of tracks upon the streets and avenues of that section of the city. It also asks the council to give these valuable privileges free.
Now, why should not these companies pay for these valuable privileges—not by a percentage on prospective earnings, but by a fixed and stated sum each year?
It would be equivalent to the privileges being rented by the city to the companies, except that the term of the lease would be perpetual and the price would not be subject to change. In that way a sufficient sum could be realized to pay interest on and provide a sinking fund for $500,000 of bonds that could be floated for the construction of a tunnel.

Duluth's bank clearings last week reached $1,577,759. This is an increase of 23.9 per cent over the corresponding week of last year. It shows in a telling manner the rapid growth of the city's business. There are few other cities in the country that show such a large increase. It must also be remembered that Duluth's bank clearings have shown a marked increase each week this year over the corresponding period of 1891.

GRAIN INSPECTION.

Referring to the close of the wheat investigation, which resulted in a complete vindication of the Duluth elevator companies, the St. Paul News says: "As a matter of fact, the farmers will be quite as well off should the system of grain inspection be abolished until such time as business can be done without the intervention of political bosses."

It would be difficult to crowd more ignorance and stupidity into one sentence than the above contains. Such a statement as that made by the News can only be the outgrowth of either gross ignorance or deep-seated prejudice. Without the system of grain inspection the farmer would be in a very unenviable position. There would be no fixed standards for grades. The grain buyers would have him completely at their mercy. They could fix whatever grade they pleased upon his wheat and he would have no redress. Likewise, without an official system of inspection, the farmer would receive less for the wheat.
The standing of Minnesota and Dakota wheat in the markets of the world would be destroyed. In fact, the whole grain business would be demoralized, and the farmer would suffer more than any one else.

The grain inspection department of this state has reached a high state of efficiency, because it is in the hands of practical and experienced men, and the professed friends of the farmer who advocate its abolition are in reality his worst enemies.

THIS NEEDS ATTENTION.

The ordinance granting right-of-way privileges to the Duluth, Red Lake Falls & Northern road contains one provision which the aldermen should carefully consider before taking final action upon the ordinance. There are other portions of the ordinance which are open to objection, but this one deserves special attention. The ordinance says:

There is also granted to said Duluth, Red Lake Falls & Northern Railway company the right on October 1st, 1892, or as soon thereafter as may be, to enter upon St. Croix avenue in the city of Duluth, and build thereon throughout the center of said avenue a double track line of railroad with connecting switches, and the right to maintain said track thereafter for the period of eighteen months and to operate thereon during said eighteen months the cars, engine and general business of said railway company, provided that at the end of said period said Duluth, Red Lake Falls & Northern Railway company shall remove its tracks from said avenue and restore said avenue to as good a condition as it found it.

There are many people who are absolutely opposed to St. Croix avenue being given to any company for railroad purposes. There are only two ways of reaching the canal, and if a bridge or tunnel be constructed and the anticipated business created, both Lake avenue and St. Croix avenue will be crowded with teams from morning until night. It is a question of only a short time when the new road will be built on Lake avenue and this will naturally curtail the facilities for teaming. It is therefore essential that St. Croix avenue shall be kept clear of tracks.

It will, of course, be said in answer to this argument that the ordinance grants the right to maintain the tracks on St.
Croix avenue for only eighteen months.
That is true. Yet it is a dangerous privilege to grant. If the railroad officials should refuse to remove the tracks at the expiration of that time, how could the city dispossess them? Then, again, if this question is required for only eighteen months, is it not possible that the company can dispense with it altogether? The aldermen should give this matter due consideration.

The great Alliance organ, the State, which advised the farmers to hold their wheat for $1.50 or $2 per bushel, has suspended publication. Some of the farmers wish its existence had terminated before it had a chance to offer such fool advice.

Dun's review of trade says that prices are, as a rule, 18 per cent lower than a year ago, yet in his Providence speech
Mr. Cleveland said that under the Mc-Kinley tariff the consumers have found life harder than before.

An Absurd Wife.
New York Weekly: Married daughter —Oh, dear, such a time as I do have with that husband of mine! I don't have a minute's peace when he's in the house. He is always calling me to help him do something or other. Mother—What does he want now? Daughter—He wants me to trudge way upstairs just to thread a needle for him so he can mend his clothes.

A Prospective Duel.
Texas Sittings: When people lose their temper they are apt to say things that are contradictory. Two New York gentlemen got into a quarrel at their club. Finally one of them, who believes in the code, said excitedly: "You are a low blackguard and an unmitigated scoundrel. Now, sir, if you are a gentleman and a man of honor you know what you have to do. Here is my card."

"Why, how do you do, Mr. Blank? I'm

Mr. Blank, and she knows it, and of course she secures the seat which he relinquishes in her favor. Alas! who can

AMUSEMENTS.

Hanon's "Superba" at the Temple—
Other Attractions.

The production of "Superba," which the famous Hanon Bros. will present at the Temple April 13, 14 and 15, is certainly making a general sensation in the East. The Hanons have long held the palm, for pantomimic and spectacular productions and in "Superba," it is said they have outdone themselves. Lively tricks of athletic and humorous nature, curious illusions that delight the children with their eccentricity and funny developments, with many exciting scenes abound in the play, so that even the elder playgoer for the time being, is willing to let the pleasure of boyhood recur in his mind, and enters into the enjoyment of the play with his youthful neighbors.

The bells were given at the Lyceum on Saturday evening and was well done.
In the afternoon the Lee company, the brilliant in thought or text.

The Hart Comedy Company who were at the Temple gave what was probably the poorest show ever seen in Duluth at a reputable house. It was coarse, vulgar and with no redeeming features.

"Who is the Kernells?" asked one

"I dunno! Never heard of 'em be-

"Never heard of them?" chimed in the actor, a little disgusted to think that there was any one in the city who had not heard of the famous brothers.
"They, did you ever hear of Adam and Eve?"

"Naw," said the youngster, "what show do they travel with?"

And then the foolish youth, with his contem-

And then the foolish man who marries late,
And spends his time in waiting for his death,
And then he becomes an old, old fool—

Beautiful Window Display.

Among the many tasty window displays in Duluth which foreshadow the Easteride now close upon us, is that made by the great bargain rivers Panton & Watson at their Glass Block store. Of course the display inside the large store is a thousand times more ex-things of beauty. Elegant imported capes, mantles, dress goods of exclusive design, millinery and millinery trimmings from the most noted French and continental makers serve to make a display alike captivating to the women and attractive to the men. The art of proper window display seems to be thoroughly understood by Pantton & Watson at all times, but they have beaten their record in their "Easter opening" show.

THE SIXTH DISTRICT

The Political Situation In Duluth Stated Up
By An Observer From The Floor City.

H. C. Kendall only the Avowed Republican Candidate in the Race for the Nominations.

Mayor d'Autremont Says that Sentiment Has Not Crystallized As to the Democratic Candidate.

W. K. O'Brien Jr., the political reporter of the Minneapolis Journal, was in Duluth a few days ago stirring up the political situation in the Sixth district.
Prefacing his remarks with a few words about the mining excitement, he said:
"If the market runs your way you are playing on velvet, if it goes against you you have only to cross the street and give to John Langston's diamond suit."

Hence the newly opened from exchange is crowded every morning, while standing room around the desk at the hotel is always at a premium. From this he turned to the political arena, and here are his conclusions:

"I have talked with a score of prominent Duluth politicians today, irrespective of party, and none penetrate the venerable of partisan politics; all declare that the people of Duluth would rather have a good Democrat than a Republican or Democrat—elected to congress from this district, than to carry the state ticket of the state through."

Hence it is that Duluth voters are not electing a congressman; therefore it is claimed that if he be of the right caliber he will get practically the solid vote of the city; it is an open question whether or not the district at large will unite against him, and the tight, narrow down to a contest between the city and the country. All agree that it is one party names a Duluth man, the other will nominate a man from outside the city.

"As far as the list of Duluth candidates is concerned today, the following have sifted: G. H. Hartley, Col. C. H. Graves and Judge O. P. Stearns are popularly regarded as ardent Democrats, and politicians tell me that the blue blood will not be taken as security until the Mesaba belt has been developed. Both Messrs. Hartley and Graves have declared time and again that they would not accept the nomination under any circumstances, and it is understood that Judge Stearns has never declined to cast an anchor to the windward since the memorable fight four years ago. S. J.
Thompson, secretary of the chamber of commerce, is regarded by the boys as a back number."

Senator Daugherty, though very popular, have flatly forbidden the use of their names in any publication. The dial has announced himself in the field. The popular ex-member of the legislature from the fifth-fourth has placed himself in the hands of his friends until after the nominating convention, and although several ambitious Republican Richmonds are in the field within the next few months, Mr.
Kendall is the only avowed Republican candidate from Duluth in the race for the nomination today.

"May or Chas. d'Autremont is the most talked of Duluth Democrat for congressional honors. He rode into the mayoral chair on the popular wave. The business men wanted a live office man, and he was it. He has been a successful administrator; the rounders somehow or other got the impression that d'Autremont was pledged to a two-term policy, and so between the two quickly lifted Mayor Davis out and put Mayor d'Autremont in. From what I hear, Mayor d'Autremont is now taking office, has managed to please extremists at both ends of the line by one of those not too much-but-just-enough administrations. Curtains up and front door locked at midnight, but side door open, providing there is no noise and everything regular. See?"

"So it is that Charles's popularity is growing, and there is a possibility that he would have the support of the Duluth Democracy for the nomination if he wished it. I asked him today if he wanted it, and as he is rather original, he said that sentiment had not crystallized;
it was too early, which was very kind of him, for had he said that he could not accept or decline any office until it was offered him, I should have left the city hall with a very bad impression of him."

"But Mayor d'Autremont is not the only Democrat talked of; Maj. M. R.
Baldwin is an old settler, a conservative business man and president of the Duluth chamber of commerce. P. M. Graff and E. C. Grier also have their friends, but as a matter of fact none of this quartet are particularly anxious for the nomination from this district in a presidential year. The feeling of the Democratic host as summed up by Mayor d'Autremont is a fair sample of the Jeffersonian talk for publication."

"He regards the Sixth as fair fighting ground; says that with the Australian system of voting the Democrats should get 25 per cent of the 1700 votes on the Vernum range, and that while the old fifth district was overwhelmingly Democratic, the Alliance vote in the new Sixth will be the uncertain factor in determining the result. Mayor d'Autremont argues that the Alliance is made up largely of Scandinavians, who, although low tariff men, are in the main deserters from the Republican ranks. Assuming that the Alliance 'sticks together' and polls a heavy vote, Duluth's High Point of Democracy sees more than a possibility of a Republican loss and a Democratic gain."

"Other Democrats, however, are not so confident; if I revealed the name of my Democratic informant you would not believe me, and he would come out in a letter and declare I had misquoted him; finally his name is withheld at his own request, but this is what he said. Draw your own conclusions. The Democrats can never carry this district in a presidential year, and between you and me they are not falling to one other here in Duluth for the nomination."

A Building Boom.
The showing in building activity for April has been remarkable. If it is to be taken as an indication for the season, Duluth will see more building this year than for several seasons. It is said that a handsome $200,000 building is to be erected in the vacant lot between the Board of Trade building and the High-point by Boston capitalists who own the property.

The story cannot be absolutely verified, but it is certain that negotiations looking to this end have been carried on for some time and it is probable that the building will be erected during this coming summer.

Peculiar Death.
William Jager, aged 5 years and 6 months, son of Wm. and Elizabeth Jager, died Saturday night under peculiar circumstances. The family live at 223

East Fifth street and the boy retired with his mother. When she woke up in the morning the boy was dead beside her. The coroner has the case in hand but has not reported as yet on the cause of death.

WRIGHT IS WRONG
And His Error Costs Him a Couple of Teeth.

Passengers in the St. Paul & Duluth train at the Union depot this morning were treated to a very active though impromptu "mail." The participants were Lloyd Bingham and W. H. Wright, business manager of the "Runaway Wife" company. Wright was in the car with his wife also a member of the company, when Bingham entered and demanded some salary which was due him. Some hot words followed and then blows, and in the latter exchange Wright had decidedly the worst of it, losing a couple of teeth and gaining two black eyes in place of them. His face was badly cut up also. The story of the circumstances which led to the assault is rather interesting.

Mr. Bingham, when seen this morning, gave the affair in detail. "The company," he said, "was originally owned and managed by myself and McKee Rankin, and until a few weeks ago we were with him. Then Lee took the company and we remained though he has a very bad reputation. Ever since he took the company salaries have been behind, and the excitation of my own and that of Mr. Clark. We had word yesterday that we were to go to Minneapolis this morning, and were all ready to start. About ten minutes before train time Mr. Wright came to me and said that he was dissatisfied with and offered to settle what was owing me at fifty cents on the dollar. I accepted. Very shortly after that I the company was not disbanded it was being "done up." I went to the train, found Wright, and the result was a row. I did not get my back salary, but I got considerable satisfaction. We ought to have expected that Lee would do us up.

The Weather.

U. S. WEATHER BUREAU, DULUTH, MINN., April 12.—An area of high pressure moving down from the Northwest this morning and a storm forming over Kansas and Nebraska.
Rain is falling over Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Nebraska and Iowa. The storm is advancing to the south, but the rain is not so heavy as yet. The storm is now moving east as to its movement, cannot now be made certain.

In the section covered by the storm, the temperature has risen considerably. Over the Northwest it has fallen, and should be a quiet day in this section. The pressure of the storm is not so heavy as yet. The storm is now moving east as to its movement, cannot now be made certain.

The precipitation during the past twenty-four hours has not been great and confined mostly to the west and southwest.
The highest water reached here yesterday, the temperature was 32°, and fell again during the night to 25°.

DULUTH, April 12.—Local forecast for Duluth until 8 a. m., April 13: Fair, with a strong probability of being followed by rain tonight; slightly warmer, followed by clear.

Observer.

INSANITARY CONDITIONS.

There has been great mortality from typhoid fever in Chicago during the past three months, but the people of that city have said little about it. This is in marked contrast to the unwise, excited and exaggerated talk which was caused by a number of misquoted citizens of Duluth when the same terrible disease was causing many deaths here a year or more ago.

The following table shows the number of deaths from typhoid fever in Chicago during the months named: January, 287; February, 191; March, 77; April, 18. As the case here, some people in the Windy City asserted that this disease was caused by the city's impure water supply, but Health Commissioner Ware has just made a statement that unsanitary conditions had more to do with the heavy death rate from typhoid fever during the January and February than the consumption of impure drinking water. He arrived at this opinion after vigorous investigation into the causes which produced typhoid fever in 287 cases. It was learned that 60 per cent of the deaths were due to unsanitary conditions, 30 per cent to the consumption of the persons who died had never drunk anything but boiled water. The investigations of the Duluth health department eighteen months ago established a similar state of affairs, and an analysis of the much condemned water supply showed that it contained nothing of an unhealthy character.

Unsanitary conditions exist on every hand in Duluth today. The alleys and back lots are filled in many sections with filth and garbage, which are a stench in the nostrils of the community as well as offensive to the eye. When the present cold weather is succeeded by the warmth of summer these masses of garbage and filth will become plague spots that will endanger the health of the community. In this germ-breeding mass will be created microbes and bacilli that will be borne by the winds into all parts of the city, carrying disease and death to all whose condition may be susceptible to attack.

The health department has a duty to perform in this matter, and it must have the support of the council in any attempt it may make to remove these disease-creating masses of filth. It will take some money to do this, but what is a dollar or two compared with the life of even one citizen? The health officer should at once take steps to deal with this matter and call upon the council for the necessary funds. Delay will be dangerous. Delay in this case is likely to result in an increased mortality.

A BRAINY SET OF MEN.

New York has a board of aldermen of which it should feel extremely proud.
Under the existing law, the board is required to meet on the first Monday of July in each year to secure the tax rolls.
The New York aldermen's inaccessibility to the influence of "bottle" is only equalled by their intense patriotism, and when they discovered that the first Monday this year falls on the glorious Fourth they patriotically rebelled at the idea of descending to public business on such an occasion. Some way out of the difficulty was sought and finally it was decided to ask the legislature to amend the law.

Impressed with the beauty and simplicity of this idea, the board held a meeting and boldly "seized the bull by the horns." Alderman Mead moved to ask the legislature to make it the 1st of July, Alderman O'Brien moved to make it the second Monday in July, and another alderman moved to make it some day in June. The board got tangled up and President Arnold undertook to straighten matters out by making inter-lineations in the resolution. The reading clerk then solemnly read the resolution, which, respectively, asked the legislature to pass a law that would allow the board, "whenever the first Monday of July shall fall upon a Sunday or other legal holiday, to meet upon the next succeeding business day." This was adopted unanimously, and the strain upon the aldermanic brain was removed. The members of this august body will now await the time when the first Monday of July shall fall upon a Sunday. There is no such instance on record, but this is an age of surprises, and no one can tell what may happen. For instance, it is possible that a New York alderman may some day become intelligent.

A FARMER'S MARKET.

A farmer has written to The Herald, requesting that the establishment of a farmers' market in Duluth be urged.
The request is cheerfully acceded to,
but it must be confessed with little hope of success at present. There is an urgent necessity for a central market in this city where the farmers from the adjacent farming district may display their produce and offer it for sale direct to the consumer, every person will admit, but some members of the council who will admit this necessity are not prepared to vote at present in favor of the establishment of such a market, owing to the city funds being required for other purposes.

The Herald does not believe that the establishment of a central market need be attended by great expense. The larger portion of the cost would be occasioned by the purchase of a site, but the market building would not necessarily cost very much. A small, temporary structure might do very well at the start, and at a later period, when the city's finances were in better shape, a first-class market building could be erected. There is no doubt that every family in the city would be greatly benefited by the establishment of a farmers' market, where vegetables and other farm produce could be purchased direct from the producers, while small fees could be imposed to meet the expense of running it.

One of the banners at a recent great gathering of New York Democrats bore the words "Cleveland Forever," and now Editor Dana dubs him "the perpetual candidate." By Mr. Dana will discover that calling names is not a successful mode of warfare. Any small boy can indulge in that sort of thing, and it doesn't hurt the object of attack. Virtue abuse generally proves a boomerang.

The greatest obstacle to the revival of business has been the free silver coinage specter. As soon as it is definitely settled that the silver bill is buried beyond the chance of resurrection, there will be a marked advance in business all over the country. Some of the very men who have been fighting hardest for this dangerous measure would be the most benefited by its utter defeat.

Three of the most important counties in Pennsylvania have declared for Quay's re-election as United States senator. Republicanism in the Keystone state must have sunk to a pretty low point of respectability when a man, who is declared by President Harrison "not a fit man to associate with" is preferred for the leading public position in the gift of the state.

Russell Harrison's Montana paper having insisted that the Minneapolis convention will be "merely a ratification meeting," the Helena Herald has humbly asked that the convention be allowed to go through the form of casting ballots for vice president. So far Russell's paper has not given an answer to the request.

Rev. Dr. Parkhurst has neither advanced the cause of religion nor increased himself in public regard by the account of his visit to disorderly houses. He may not have been influenced by unhealthy curiosity in going to the extreme which he has described, but it looks very much as if that were the case.

An ordinance has been passed in Chicago to clear the streets of jackasses.
This looks like a studied attempt on the part of the majority of the aldermanic board to curtail the liberties of those who refused to be bribed.

There is too much filibustering in congress these days. A little more business would better please the country. In fact if the members would pass the appropriation bills and adjourn, no one would complain.

AMUSEMENTS.

"Superba" at the Temple—Robert Mantell.

"The Hanlons, knowing the advanced idea of amusement patrons, have adopted the most popular form of pantomime," says an Eastern critic, "adding to it a varied attraction by specialty novelties and scenic splendors unknown to the predecessors in this line of popular entertainment. 'Superba,' their latest creation, is in for a long term of popularity and is likely to outlive even the memory of the 'Voyage en Suisse.' It is without doubt the most exhilarating spectacular novelty now before the public." At the Temple Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

It was the late John McCullough who first offered Robert Mantell an American engagement. Mr. McCullough saw Mantell while he was playing at the Surrey theater in London, and was so well pleased with his work that he offered him $500 a week to support him in this country. Mantell, who is now one of the most popular of American romantic actors, will appear at the Lyceum on Friday and Saturday.

Waiting For My Own.

Scene I fold my hands and wait,
For care for wind, nor tide, nor sea;
I have no more, 'gainst time or fate,
For lo! my own shall come to me.

Scene II I make delays,
For what avails this eager haste
To find the end of all my ways,
And what is mine shall know my fate.

Scene III I seek my own,
The friends I seek are seeking me;
I find them all, and find them true,
Nor change the tide of destiny.

Scene IV I stand alone,
For the coming years,
My heart shall know where I have seen,
And garner up its fruits of tears.

The waters know their own, and draw
The brook that springs in tender hillsides;
So flows the good with equal law,
Till the soul of pure desire.

You flowerer plucked in the wind Ready yielding to the breeze,
And meekness, why that makest me find
For lo! the lover seeketh thee.

The stars come nightly to the sky,
The tidal waves unite the sea,
Nor time, nor space, nor deep, nor high,
Can keep my own away from me.

Both in Their Hands.

I'm not seeking office—oh, no;
I'm not seeking office—oh, no;
I'm not in the hands of my friends,
But most all my money is there.

Paine's Celery Compound and
M. D.'s Discovery.

Tones the Nerves, Strengthens Muscles, Enriches the Blood.

"I read of the remarkable cures made by Paine's celery compound."
"I consulted my physician about it, and the reply was 'best spring medicine in the world.'"
"When I asked the druggist concerning it, his answer was 'no other medicine is having so large a sale this spring.' My customers always speak well of it. It is the one remedy about which we have never yet received a complaint."

"That is the way," continued the speaker, a well-known merchant, "I came to use this compound, and I am so thankful for the benefit that I never lose an opportunity of recommending it.
Last year I had to give up work in March and go to Florida, but this spring
I have stayed right at my desk, and feel as strong as any one."

Paine's celery compound is not a patent medicine.
It is the prescription that made the fame of Edward E. Phelps, M. D., L. L.
D., of Dartmouth college.
It is the remedy that physicians have ever since prescribed to strengthen the nerves and purify the blood.
Prof. Phelps, true scientist that he was, gave this prescription to all reputable physicians. They saw that it was effective complete cures of nervous complications when every thing else failed; it positively and permanently drove from the blood the poison which, in seated disease, it was pleasant, palatable and harmless; it gave strength and health to delicate children and feeble old folks.

Patients who are weak and weary, when sleepless, dyspeptic, or despondent, often have been advised so often to use Paine's celery compound to banish disease and despondency that it has come to be known everywhere by the public, as well as the medical profession and the druggists, as a specific in such cases.
It tones the system, strengthens the muscles, and enriches the blood as nothing else can.

"There is but one celery compound, and its name is Paine's," wrote Dr. Newton. And his public endorsement is given by thousands who unite in declaring this scientific compound "the best spring medicine in the world."

THE DISTRICT COURT.

The Case of James Murphy Against the Street Railway Company on Trial Today.

Britt Hanson Has Been Given a Verdict For $500 Against John Hendrickson.

Judge Ingan Will Take up the Criminal Calendar Tomorrow—Some Court Notes.

Judge Brown arrived last evening from Winona and is holding court in room No. 2 today.

The personal damage suit of James Murphy against the Duluth Street Railway company was on trial before him today.

Murphy was struck by a car last October and severely injured. He brought suit and his case was tried at the February term but the jury disagreed, remaining out all night.

There is considerable testimony to be taken and the plaintiff has not rested as yet. The jury in the case of Christian Zerbolt vs. David Hammel brought in a verdict this morning of $187.70 for the plaintiff.

Zerbolt bought a horse from the defendant and alleged that it was in a dying condition when he purchased it although it was represented to be sound.

A verdict for $500 for the plaintiff was returned last evening by the jury in the case of Britt Hanson vs. John Hendrickson.

She sued for $250 for personal injuries. Falk, Jung & Borchert Brewing company vs. R. J. Baxell et al. has been settled.

The case of Joseph Wolf against the city of Duluth was taken up upon the opening of court this afternoon.

Wolf is suing to recover about $400 for overwork done on city contracts by order of the city engineers.

Jacob Zimmerman has a similar suit to recover about the same amount, which will be taken up immediately after the Wolf case.

The jury cases still on the calendar are $7,69, 101 and 87.

The criminal calendar will be taken up tomorrow morning before Judge Ensign and a special venire for eight jurors was issued this afternoon.

The principal cases are the two against Joseph Horton for assault in the second degree and the other for dissuading a witness from testifying against him.

W. N. Pollock, the Merritt "blind pig" keeper, will also be tried on two indictments. Besides these, there are one or two other cases of minor importance.

Charles L. Morgan has commenced an action against D. L. Morgan and about fifteen others for judgment from the court that a partition shall be made among the joint owners of five lots on Lake avenue, Lower Duluth, and thirteen lots on St. Louis avenue, in Upper Duluth.

The value of the property is $14,750 and all of the interests are undivided and subject to the dower interests of either A. C. Morgan or Wealtha D. Parsons.

WHEAT TAKES A DROP.

The Market Very Sick, With Many Fluctuations.

The Duluth wheat market opened a little firmer this morning but did not hold its advance up to noon.

The weakness was due to weaker cables reporting prices 1/4 to 1/2 lower.

Very bullish reports continue to be received of the condition of the Northwest for seeding.

The untroubled wheat in the Northwest was reported ruined.

Private letters received from the James valley state that no seeding can be done before the middle of next week owing to the condition of the ground.

Similar reports were received from the Red River valley.

The market here was very sick, the fluctuations being more than usual.

There was, however, a large amount of trading done in May wheat, mostly on outside orders.

Other futures and cash were neglected. The close was about 1/4 off all round from yesterday, as follows: No. 1 hard—Cash, 80 1/2 c; April, 79 1/4 c; May, 81 1/2 c; June, 82 1/2 c; July, 83 1/2 c.

SECRET SESSIONS MUST GO.

James R. Young, who has been executive clerk of the United States for the past ten years, has been deposed, after an excited executive session in which the old women who composed that body, and particularly Grandma Sherman, raved and stormed because the proceedings of the secret sessions had leaked out and been published. They wanted to punish some one for this awful crime, and poor Mr. Young, who probably never uttered a word to any one concerning the secret proceedings, was selected as the victim. He was not even permitted to make a defense, but his official head was summarily chopped off. He has been made the scape-goat for the sins of the garrulous old women of the upper branch of congress. There is no evidence against him, as far as the public records show. Someone had to be sacrificed, and Mr. Young was selected.

It is safe to say that the proceedings of the next executive session will be published as fully as if Mr. Young still held his office. The sources of information that have been tapped in the past will be available again. Some of the senators who voted for Mr. Young's removal will relate what occurred at the secret session just as freely as they have always done. Then it may be necessary to hunt up another victim.

But why have any secret sessions?
Why should the representatives of the people, sent to the capital to transact the public business, sit behind closed doors while deciding upon matters that interest and affect the whole people?
The principle is wrong. It is un-American, and contrary to the spirit of republicanism. It is not even English, because neither branch of the British parliament holds secret sessions. All the public business is done in public. So it should be here. What is true in this respect of the federal senate is equally true of state senates and city councils. There is no reason why these bodies should sit in secret and discuss matters of public importance. The people have a right to know what their representatives are doing. The day is fast coming when "star chamber" sessions of all representative public bodies will be abolished. At present they are no more than a farce, because their proceedings are published regularly. But the rooting out of the old principle which is at their base demands their abolition.

THE MESABA WEALTH.

The statement by Ernest Nunemacher of Milwaukee, that the Mesaba iron range will close up every iron mine on the Menominee and Gogebic ranges, is not the wild talk of an excited and reckless boomer. It is the deliberate statement of an experienced and practical iron man who has made a careful personal examination of the Mesaba with a view of deciding whether the great claims which had been made regarding the quality of its ore and the cheapness of mining it, were founded on facts. Mr.
Nunemacher has large interests on both the Menominee and Gogebic ranges, and if he entertained any prejudice on this question it would naturally be in favor of those ranges as against the Mesaba.
His opinion that the Mesaba will close every mine on those ranges is, therefore, entitled to considerably more weight than that of other men who are interested only in the Mesaba.

"You can beat those districts in mining about $1 a ton, and that is a tremendous advantage," asserts Mr. Nunemacher.
This is the great secret of the Mesaba's advantage over all other ranges, and the iron miners of the world are beginning to realize what it means. There is a big profit in mining on the Mesaba and the future of those companies which have entered upon the work of development with the intention of producing shipping mines have a bright future before them.

A KNOTTY PROBLEM.

The members of a sewing circle in an English town are at present very much agitated over the interesting question, "Should ladies open their husbands' letters?" The discussion has waxed very warm, and has caused considerable bitter feeling between the opposing factions. While the debate was at its height, one young lady expressed the opinion that ladies should not open their husbands' letters, and characterized such a proceeding as "inquisitive, unwomanly and improper."

Of course this was one of those innocent, unsuspecting maidens, whose faith in human nature has received no rude shock by contact with the rougher side of life. She was one of those loving, trusting girls, who would repose the most perfect trust in the faithfulness of the man of her choice, and who would no more suspect him of flirtation with another woman than she would indulge in such an awful sin herself. But all the members of the sewing circle were not of this description. There were some matrons present whom stern experience had divested of these views, and they sat down at once upon the suggestion of the unsuspecting maiden. One of them, therefore, proposed an amendment to the effect "that ladies were perfectly and legally justified in opening their husbands' letters, and also in making the fullest inquiries into all their business transactions." This amendment was carried by an overwhelming majority.

What the result will be is not yet apparent. Probably we will not learn until some wife opens a sweet-scented missive addressed to her hubby, and either meets the fate of Blue Beard's wife or rushes to the divorce court. It is indeed a knotty problem.

Who says that the Hill boom is not spreading among the Minnesota Democrats? If there be any such, let them read the following which appears in the advertising columns of the Minneapolis papers:

PERSONAL.—Wanted, every Democrat in Minneapolis who believes it is better to have Hill live than Cleveland and to just to send his name and address to John H.
Long, 108 New York street.

Mr. Long should publish a list of the names and addresses that he receives.

The success which has marked the operations of the iron stock exchange has been a surprise to even the most sanguine of its promoters. It was expected that the opening of the exchange would be attended by a rush to sell, and that every person would be anxious to unload. The contrary was the case, many of those who were considered likely to sell being among the buyers.

Sleepy Eye, a town in the southern part of this state, owns its electric light plant. The statement of receipts and expenditures for the first two months of this year shows a profit of 15 per cent per year on the amount invested. This shows that the municipality, which owns and operates its own electric plant, is practicing true economy.

It is generally conceded that the influence of the Providence Journal was more potent than anything else in gaining the recent Republican victory in Rhode Island. The Journal is an independent paper, and independent journalism has far greater power than that possessed by the party organs.

After thinking over the matter for two days, the Boston Globe came to the conclusion that the Republican party carried Rhode Island "by the skin of its teeth." It is a good thing that Rhode is so small or the strain might have been too great for such a tender cuticle.

The army engineers will not give permission to bridge the canal, but they admit that the danger resulting to navigation has been overestimated, and that the proposition made by the city would reduce the obstruction to a minimum.

Minneapolis ministers are at present engaged in a lively discussion of the question, "Is There a Hell?" Some who are taking the negative side may revise their opinions after the political convention in June.

Years ago China was induced to open its doors to civilization. Now the United States congress proposes to exclude the Chinese from this country more completely than China ever shut out foreigners.

There is a vigorous revival of Blaine talk at Washington. The Blaine men refuse to accept the letter of declination.
It may yet result in Blaine accepting the nomination at Minneapolis.

It has been suggested that Dr. Parkhurst print a treatise on "What I Know About Leapfrog." Did the doctor follow the old adage, "Look before you

Although the Massachusetts Democrat state convention declared for Cleve-

The Easter Bonnet.
(Atlanta Constitution.)
Don't make 'em like they are to—done killed with too much style.
Fix 'em like the old-fashioned ones, till you know 'em (half smile).
"An' 'em like the Easter bonnets," in the big store follows him.
"An' 'em like the bonnets that they wore when we was young!"

How much completer, sweeter, and neater was the old
Time bonnet, shap'd 'round cheeks an' ringlets black an' red!
Plain, with no frills on it—with a string of red or blue.
But a kite beneath that bonnet was as sweet as honey-dew!

Don't make 'em like they are to—done killed
with too much style.
An' yet—the girls that wear 'em give a feller set a smile.
He kinde smooths it over—forgives 'em, so highly prize.
But they're nuttin' like the bonnets that they wore when we was young!

All the Modern Improvements.
Detroit Free Press: Windsor has been made a city and is to have bi-chloride of gold institute soon. All the needs now is a "booddy" council and a garbage roll to be fit for annexation.

Colonel Shepard the Unique.
New York Morning Advertiser: The Elder has hired a new editor from Connecticut who bears the noble name of Amos, and he launches him with this extract from the Scripture:
"The words of Amos, who was among the herdmen of Tekoa."

Disadvantages of Stage Realism.
New York Sun: Some chorus girls who rebel at showing bare knees in highland costume for fear of rheumatism can allege a more artistic objection.
Realism demands that the knee in the show should stimulate Cousin Samwee's own, which is a frost-bitten red in color, adorned with a tawny mane. The genuine knee would hardly prove a chorus attraction.

AMUSEMENTS.

"Superba" Tonight—Robert Mantell
Coming at the Lyceum.
The Hamilton company arrived yesterday in Duluth after a clean jump from Montana. The stage at Temple opera was stripped of the regular house scenery and the carpenters of the company began to set up the scenery for the pantomime.

"Superba" is not an extravaganza. It depends for its acceptance by the public, principally on its scenic illusions, mechanical tricks and pantomimic comedy. Although it has some of the elements of extravaganza, and much of the spectacle, it is a performance to which the theater goer may take his wife, sister or sweetheart with the assurance that its tone is healthy and clean though none the less exhilarating. In theme it is a myth and freak of the imagination, but at the same time it is a frolic of a brilliant and amusing kind. There is no attempt to interest the reason, in fact there is more to be seen than to be heard.
"Superba" is calculated to appeal to all classes of theater goers. A capable company of pantomimists are prominent in the most prominent names being Miss Mildred Holland, Miss Maud Midgeley, Miss Jessie West, Wm. Schindler, and a host of others. The Schindler troupe of acrobats.

Robert Mantell.

Of Robert Mantell, who comes to the Lyceum on Friday evening, the delphia Press says: "In Mr. Mantell's impersonation of Monbars, the noble hearted Frenchman, who is made to believe that his wife is poisoning him, there is an impressiveness, a seriousness, a splendid restraint, an artistic completeness and at the same time personal charm that convince one more than anything else that Mr. Mantell has yet done, that we have on our stage a man from whom great things are to come in time." During the Duluth engagement Mr. Mantell will produce "Monbars," "The Cyprian Brothers" and "The Lousianian."

How to Run for Office.
Washington Post: Congressman John Allen told a good story at Chamberlain's last night. Referring to election day down in Mississippi Mr. Allen told of an elector who grandiloquently referred to the old saying, "The office should seek the man, not the man the office."

A few days afterward the speaker was noticed electorizing in old-fashioned style, with drinks and cigars, etc. Being called down and asked about his assertion of a few days before that "the office should seek the man," he replied:
"I still maintain my position. The office should indeed seek the man, but by the way, the man should be around when the office is looking for him."

Proper Maternal Care.
Louisville Courier-Journal: New York mothers may have to spank their 16-year-old daughters, but every mother, before beginning, should be careful to remove the obdurate young lady's tulu.

Mr. and Mrs. Ingalls and Their Chil-

The following communication from Mr. G. E. Ingalls, the well-known musician of Duluth, Minn., is self-explanatory.

"I wish to add my testimonial to the beneficial effects of Paine's celery compound for all persons, young or old, who in the spring need a reliable strength-giver or tonic for the system, or whose blood needs cleansing of impurities."

"During the past three months I have used this compound for my wife, my children, and myself, with marked increase in color and general tone of health."

Everyone knows that Paine's celery compound is the one standard remedy that strengthens the nerves, purifies the blood, and makes well those who use it.

It is bought by the half dozen bottles in many families, that they may always have this valuable remedy in the house.
It keeps perfectly, the last drop in the bottle being as full of curative power as the first.

City Contracts Cannot be Changed by the Engineer, Says Judge Ensign.

Unless the City Council Approve and Endorse the Action—An Important Decision.

The Criminal Calendar Now on Trial—Joseph Hort Before the Grand Jury Today.

The case of Joseph Wolf against the city of Duluth, which went to trial late yesterday afternoon, proved to be a very important one, and should the decision be sustained by the higher court, will be far-reaching in its effects. Wolf sued to recover about $4500 for work done in excess of the contract on Piedmont avenue, under the direction and order of the board of public works and city engineer.

The contract, which is the same as all the others made by the city, contains a provision that it is subject to change under the direction of the engineer and board of public works. Judge Ensign held that the contract was an illegal one, that the charter granted no authority for the making of such a contract, and that the council and board of public works only could order changes. At the same time he said that it was a hardship to the contractors, as they must do the work as directed in order to receive any estimates. Judge Ensign was quite emphatic in condemning the contract, saying that it was a "bad" one and that the city ought to burn every contract bank it had. The trial of the case proper began this morning. The plaintiff, Joseph Wolf, is a resident of Duluth, and the defendant, the city of Duluth, is represented by the city engineer, Joseph Hort.

Judge Ensign held that the contract was an illegal one, that the charter granted no authority for the making of such a contract, and that the council and board of public works only could order changes. At the same time he said that it was a hardship to the contractors, as they must do the work as directed in order to receive any estimates. Judge Ensign was quite emphatic in condemning the contract, saying that it was a "bad" one and that the city ought to burn every contract bank it had. The trial of the case proper began this morning. The plaintiff, Joseph Wolf, is a resident of Duluth, and the defendant, the city of Duluth, is represented by the city engineer, Joseph Hort.

The case of Joseph Wolf against the city of Duluth, which went to trial late yesterday afternoon, proved to be a very important one, and should the decision be sustained by the higher court, will be far-reaching in its effects. Wolf sued to recover about $4500 for work done in excess of the contract on Piedmont avenue, under the direction and order of the board of public works and city engineer.

The contract, which is the same as all the others made by the city, contains a provision that it is subject to change under the direction of the engineer and board of public works. WANTS HER PAY.

A Servant Girl Brings Action in the Municipal Court.

Mrs. Ada L. Brock, proprietor of the Ayer house on First street, was brought before the municipal court yesterday afternoon on complaint of Miss Jennie Pugh, who claims that she was employed as a domestic by Mrs. Brock for a month and that the latter refused to pay her for her services. The case did not come to trial and Mrs. Brock will be given a chance to settle if she chooses. The law under which the complaint was drawn was passed at the 1891 session and it provides that any person who shall willfully refuse to pay a laborer his wages, with the idea or intent of getting a discount, is guilty of extortion. The penalty of extortion is not more than five years in the penitentiary. There are probably very few people who are familiar with this law and undoubtedly there are a great many who violate it. William Toban, one single lonely drunk, was sent up for ten days.

Marine Notes.

The Lake Superior Transit company steamer India, the only line boat that wintered at Milwaukee, will take on a full cargo of package freight for Duluth and will leave that port on Thursday.

The San Francisco Chronicle of April 6 contains the following interesting paragraph concerning the lake-built steamer Keweenaw: "The steamer Keweenaw was towed to the Union Iron works yesterday to go on the dry dock. A new rudder and rudder post will be put in, and the damage to the stern post, steam pipes and crutings repaired. A new engine is being ordered. The vessel is valued at $75,000 for towing the disabled vessel to port is in a fair way of settlement for one-half the amount. As soon as the Keweenaw is out of the dry dock the whaleback steamer, Charles W. Wetmore, will go on to undergo extensive repairs."

The Norwegian steamer "Vermland," which is now under way to Chicago, was yesterday mentioned as the first European ship that has visited Chicago. The Herald is informed that this is incorrect. A Norwegian sloop "Skjoldmo" in 1893 or '94, sailed from Bergen, Norway, to Chicago and back again, and the ship was only about fifty tons and had a crew of captain and four men.

SILVER AS MONEY.

The English Government Has Made Overtures for an International Conference on It.

Means to be Considered for the Extension of the Use of Silver as Money.

No Provision, However, for Ratification of Any Agreement That May be Reached.

New York, April 14.—The Press this forenoon says positive information that a definite proposition for an international conference on silver has lately come from the English government to the United States government. It is in possession of a few well-informed persons in New York city and Washington, and there is reason to believe that this fact will soon be made public. The proposition came through the regular diplomatic channels to Secretary Foster from Mr. Geo. I. Goschen, chancellor of the exchequer, on the eve of the secretary's departure for Europe.

The proposition contemplates the holding of an international conference for the purpose of considering means for the extension of the use of silver as a money metal. There is no reference to metallism, free coinage of silver or bullion purchases, on which silver certificates are issued to serve as currency, but its broad terms imply that the proposition covers these means, as well as others, as subject to investigation by the conference.

In another particular the proposition is unsatisfactory to this country. No provision has yet been suggested that will insure the ratification by the respective governments of any agreement which a conference might reach. There is likely to be considerable correspondence on these points before any agreement for a conference is made.

SHE KNEW TOO MUCH.

Lottie Morgan's Death Linked With the Hurley Robbery.

ASHLAND, Wis., April 14.—The strained secrecy apparent among members of the grand jury and officials indicate that something serious is in the wind. It is learned that no further testimony was taken yesterday in the Lottie Morgan case. It is thought that the grand jury is waiting further developments. One witness stated that Lottie Morgan said she knew more about the Hurley bank robbery than many of the witnesses summoned during the trial. It was not long after she made this statement that she was found murdered, and it is thought that she knew more about the bank robbery than many of the witnesses summoned during the trial. AUSTRIAN VILLAGE BURNED.

The People in a Panic on the Subject of Incendiary Fires.

VIENNA, April 14.—The fire which devastated the village of Leondolden in Austria, did much more destruction than at first reported. The village damage is not less than half a million florins. The best part of the village destroyed, and the inhabitants are being cared for in the neighboring farm houses. The fire is believed beyond doubt, to be incendiary as difficulties leading some time existed between the leading employer of labor in the village and certain workmen. The rural districts of Austria are in a panic on the subject of incendiary fires, which are becoming very common and have caused loss of life and extensive loss of property.

THAT Cape May Cottage.

CAPE MAY, N. J., April 14.—Col. W. Sawyer, of this city, has received instructions from President Harrison, have his Cape May Point cottage painted and otherwise prepared for occupation in May. From this it is inferred that the president's family will arrive here early in the season, and that the president will follow with the executive office immediately after the closing of the present session of congress.

FARMERS GETTING UNEASY.

Latest Spring for Years in the Red River Valley.
PEMBINA, N. D., April 14.—Rain and sleet has been falling for seven hours, which is swelling the raging Red river, but it is still from three and a half to four feet below the high water mark of 1882. The indications are that it will be the latest spring for several years, as very little fall plowing has been done. Farmers are pretty uneasy.

Mutinous Troops.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., April 14.—Reports received indicate that a mutiny is threatened among the state troops now on guard at the stockade of the Knoxville Coal and Iron company at Coal Creek, with a plot to hang two non-commissioned officers who had made themselves obnoxious to a number of privates of the company. Eleven of the conspirators are in irons awaiting trial by court martial.

Suicide Presumed.

ISHPEMING, Mich., April 14.—The charred remains of several hundred dollars in paper money were found at noon yesterday in a rock dump near the Cleveland mine. It is supposed to be the money taken from the vault of the cashier Gleason's death. The strong prejudice and the greed of Gleason destroyed the money to avoid suspicion.

Life-Savers Drowned.

COQUELLE CITY, Ore., April 14.—Tuesday afternoon while the life-saving crew at Bandon were practicing, the boat captained by Capt. Nelson and three of the crew of the drowned crew were William Green and Edward Summers. The third one's name is unknown.

THE WHISKY TRUST MEETS.

Over 45,000,000 Gallons of Spirits Sold Last Year.

PEORIA, Ill., April 14.—The stockholders of the Distillers and Carriers' company continued in session and their deliberations were harmonious. The three candidates for the directorate, Nelson Morris and P. J. Hennessy of Chicago, with Julius L. French of Cleveland, were easily re-elected. There were some votes cast for E. M. Pattison of Cincinnati, but Frank Curtis of New York, president of one of the elevated roads and also of the American Distillers company, was chosen over him to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of Adolph Woolner of this city. The policy of cutting prices in order to wipe out opposition was discussed. The principal feature of the session, apart from the directorate election, was President Greenhut's annual report, in which it was stated that over 45,000,000 gallons of spirits had been sold during the fiscal year ending March 31. This shows a steady increase since 1880, when sales amounted to some over $25,000,000. The company's earnings during the year were considerably over $3,000,000. They are expected to be much greater this year.

The new board, which is practically the board re-elected with one exception, met this forenoon for permanent organization. The choice of the following officers, which is the old list: J. H. Greenhut, president; P. J. Hennessy, vice-president; Wm. N. Hobart, Cincinnati, treasurer.

A MYSTERIOUS GERMAN.

His Room in Indianapolis Contained Dynamite and Fuses.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 14.—Several days ago a peculiar looking German, a stranger in the city, was observed loitering in the wholesale district and around the public buildings, and the detectives followed him under surveillance. He was traced to his room where it was discovered that he frequently received calls from mysterious persons.

Last night he was arrested. In his room was found a quantity of dynamite and fuses and several caps similar to those used by the anarchists. He was committed to jail. The stranger registered as Joseph A. Schadler. He first claimed to be a German, and afterwards said that he was in business in East St. Louis, until he was robbed of $2500 by an employer. The authorities here ordered his detention for further examination.

HIGH BLAZE ON LONG ISLAND.

A Storage Shed, Mill, Produce Market and Lumber Yards Burned.

NEW YORK, April 14.—At midnight last night fire was discovered in the storage shed of the Long Island railroad in Long Island City. The building and contents were destroyed. The flames extended to the moulding mill of W. S. Lampan & Co., also to Clark & Sampson's produce market. The lumber yards were totally consumed. Burned, a large pile of lumber was also burned. It is estimated that the loss will exceed $200,000.

A CARDINAL IN PETTO.

Speculation Regarding Archbishop Ireland's Promotion.

ST. PAUL, April 14.—If Archbishop Ireland has been made a cardinal by the pope, as the cables from Rome hint, it is not known at the archiepiscopal palace in St. Paul. At least so Father Helffer declares. This leads to the suspicion that Leo has made Ireland a cardinal in connection with his appointment to the see of Baltimore. It may be some time before an official pronouncement is made. The cardinal is the archbishop's elevation to the rank of cardinal, but that he will be so raised is generally conceded.

HE WASHED THEIR FEET.

The Austrian Emperor Today Observed an Ancient Custom.

VIENNA, April 14.—In compliance with an ancient custom, the Emperor Francis Joseph today washed the feet of twelve poor men at the imperial palace. This custom is in imitation of the washing of the feet of the disciples by Christ and has been followed by the emperors of the house of Hapsburg from time immemorial. The poor men are carefully selected from among the respectable and deserving of the city. It is said that the feet are in no actual need of washing before the emperor touches them.

LOOKING OVER THE GROUND.

Republican National Committee Men Reviewing the Work at Minneapolis.

MINNEAPOLIS, April 14.—The sub-committee of the Republican national committee is in session here today. Those present are A. L. Conger, of Ohio; Powell Clayton, of Arkansas; H. C. Payne of Wisconsin; H. S. Hyde, of Massachusetts; and K. G. Evans, of Minnesota. Chairman Clarkson will not be present as he is still nursing his rheumatism at Hot Springs. The meetings of the committee have been executive, but it is known that the committee are reviewing the work of the local committee.

Reports of the work already done and an outline of plans to be carried out have been presented by Chairman Geo. A. Brackett, of the local committee. The only chance for any friction is over the distribution of tickets to the hall. So far the national committee has kept the control of the tickets in its own hands. The local committee proposes to have something to say as to how a portion at least of the visitors' tickets are distributed. Local contributors to the convention fund expect that they will be given the preference in the distribution of tickets.

The Brazilian State of Matta Grosso Declares Its Independence.

New York, April 14.—A special to the Herald from Rio Janeiro confirms the report that the state of Matta Grosso has announced its independence and says that the new republic has assumed the name of Transatlantica. This new republic will send envoys to Argentina, Paraguay and Bolivia to ask recognition of those governments.

A Force of Troops is to be sent to the state of Matta Grosso to arrest the revolutionary leaders and bring the province back to its allegiance to Brazil.

LONDON, April 14.—The University of Edinburgh has conferred the degree of L. D. on Sir Charles Tupper, high commissioner for Canada in London.

A FURIOUS STORM.

Wind, Rain, Sleet, Hail and Then Snow Sweep Over the City of Chicago.

A Sixty-Mile Gale and Waves Shot Hundreds of Feet in the Air.

In Iowa the Storm Has Increased in Fury as to be a Fearful Blizzard.

CHICAGO, April 14.—A furious storm of wind, rain, sleet and hail, finally turning into snow, began yesterday evening and continued all night. The wind was from the northeast and as it swept over the lake it raised a tremendous sea. This forenoon a sixty mile gale was blowing and the waves as they struck the lines of piling along the lake shore shot high into the air and spray high hundreds of feet in the air.

Local trains on the Illinois Central road were delayed and other lines suffered some interruption. The iron steamer Ivanhoe, which was tied up at the breakwater, was pounded heavily by the waves and no tug could be found to venture out to her assistance. There was no one on board fortunately and she will be towed inside sometime today. The grain and lumber fleet did not venture out, nor were there any departures of steam craft.

Heavy snow and rain storms are reported throughout Minnesota, the Dakotas, Iowa, and the Northwest generally, and this morning there is a gale blowing along the lakes, accompanied in most cases by rain or snow. Telegraphic communication with points west, south west and northwest of this city is almost entirely cut off and at noon today there was no indication of any abatement of the storm in those districts.

Now a Blizzard.

BOONE, Iowa, April 14.—The storm which has been raging here for some time has so increased in fury as to be now a fearful blizzard. All telegraph and telephone wires are down and all business is suspended.

THE MINISTRY RESIGNED.

A Political Crisis in Italy Caused by Financials.

ROME, April 14.—A ministerial crisis, which has been pending for several weeks, resulted in the resignation of the entire Italian ministry excepting the premier, Marquis Rudini. The king has accepted their resignations and has charged the marquis to form a new ministry. The cause of the difficulty is financial. It has become certain that the king will not take up the 200,000,000 of the new treasury bonds, and altogether the condition of affairs is most unsatisfactory.

THEY CHEERED ALGER.

The State Convention of the Michigan Republicans.

DETROIT, Mich., April 14.—The Republican state convention was held this morning. Secretary Bates, of the state central committee, called the convention to order, read the call and announced the enforced absence of Senator McMillan from Washington, and called upon ex-Congressman Ed P. Allen, of Ypsilanti, to occupy the chair temporarily. A long session followed, and the convention adjourned at 10 o'clock. The convention was held in the city hall, and was attended by a large number of delegates. The session was a successful one, and the convention adjourned at 10 o'clock.

THE SISSETON RESERVE.

Thousands Waiting to Begin the Season's Hunting.

BROWN'S VALLEY, Minn., April 14.—A larger crowd arrived last night than ever before and the town is full. Every stopping-place was put into use last night, and many occupied barns and out-houses. Sidewalks are crowded and the town is over-run with men, most of them carrying packs and shovels and white moccasins. They will make a fifty mile forced march to the reservation, giving notice that it is occupied.

DIFFERENCES SETTLED.

The Dispute With Italy Has Been Finally Adjusted.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Official announcement will be made later this afternoon that the diplomatic differences between the United States and Italy, growing out of the massacre at New Orleans last year, have been amicably adjusted and that the money for the relatives of the victims of that affair has been paid. The exact amount is not stated.

A NEW REPUBLIC.

The Brazilian State of Matta Grosso Declares Its Independence.

New York, April 14.—A special to the Herald from Rio Janeiro confirms the report that the state of Matta Grosso has announced its independence and says that the new republic has assumed the name of Transatlantica. This new republic will send envoys to Argentina, Paraguay and Bolivia to ask recognition of those governments.

Marine Notes.

The propeller W. H. Gratwick and the propeller E. F. Brown, chartered from Buffalo on the 11th inst., left for Duluth.

Charters at Buffalo on Monday included the Northern Queen, North Star and Nova Wind for Duluth with coal at thirty cents. Another boat was taken, but her name was not learned.

CONTRACT IS INVALID.

The Fredin & Wilson Contract Cannot be Carried Out.

The discovery has been made that the contract for building the Lake avenue viaduct, which was awarded some time ago to Fredin & Wilson, is invalid under the provisions of the city charter. Chas. V. Wilson, the junior member of the firm, holds the office of fire commissioner, and the charter explicitly provides that no alderman or other officer or employee shall be a party to or interested in any jobs or contracts with the city, and any contract in which any alderman, officer or employee shall be interested shall be null and void. This provision is very binding and seems to leave no loophole. It is somewhat surprising that none of the members of the board of public works or Mr. Allen, who was then city attorney, or any of the aldermen should have discovered this when the contract was let. As a matter of fact, Chief Smith, of the fire department, was the first person to suggest that the contract was not right. He dropped in the board's office a few days ago and asked whether Fire Commissioner Wilson was going to resign, and there was quite a sensation when he explained why he thought he was going to. The city attorney and the members of the board are puzzled over it and are still at it. They kept it as quiet as possible, but of course it leaked out. The law has been thoroughly looked up, and City Attorney Smith is still looking it up for some means whereby the contract may be legalized, but no way has as yet presented itself. The law is very plain. Neither will it help matters any for Mr. Wilson to resign his office now.

The contract will undoubtedly have to be readjusted and relet and in that case Fredin & Wilson will have to come in on the same basis as the other contractors. Another unfortunate feature of them is that they have already done about $200 worth of work on the viaduct and under the charter they cannot collect for this as there is no other provision for any contract made which violates the charter any money paid on it may be recovered by a joint or several action on the part of the city.

Long's Lecture.

Alderman C. A. Long spoke before the high school this morning on "The Bright and Dark Sides of Business Life." He discussed the subject from the point of business generally rather than from that of any specific calling. He spoke of the ambition of all when in their younger years for fame and said that fame and fortune are only achieved in this world by beginning at the bread and butter end, not the bread and butter of dependence but that which has been earned. There never can be any reversal of this process. Knowledge and experience are the riches that go with the bread and butter just as it is earned. Day by day you grow richer for their possession. As to choosing a vocation Mr. Long said:

"Many of you have already decided what shall be your life's vocation. If you have not don't be in a hurry. Better be a good blacksmith than a poor preacher. Know your own strength and limitations. Put the stamp of individuality on everything you do."

A DIABOLIC DEED.

The Holy Thursday Procession at Cadiz Today Turned Into a Panic-Stricken Crowd.

Two Petards Suddenly Thrown Among the Paraders and Exploded With a Great Noise.

No Person Was Killed But Several Were Injured by the Explosion and Panic.

MADRID, April 14.—The Holy Thursday procession at Cadiz today was turned into a panic-stricken crowd by the diabolic deed of some anarchists who threw missiles among the people, evidently with the intention of causing loss of life. Today, as the sacred parade was in progress two petards, from unknown hands, were suddenly thrown among the paraders. The bombs exploded with a great noise.

When the excitement was allayed it was found that while several persons had been hurt, some by the explosion but more by the panic, no one was killed, and probably no one fatally injured. Two men who are probably those who succeeded in making their escape. The police are said to be on their trail and expect to have them in prison soon.

RAILROAD MEETINGS.

A Meeting of the Duluth & Iron Range directors held yesterday at St. Paul.

The Duluth & Winnipeg Meeting Which is being held today at Baltimore.

No Conference Between the Mesaba Road and the Duluth Terminal Company.

A directors' meeting of the Duluth & Iron Range road was held at St. Paul yesterday for the purpose of considering matters relating to extension to the Mesaba. The meeting was attended by Marshall Field, M. J. Carpenter, H. H. Porter, J. H. Carpenter, N. B. Ream, C. W. Hilliard and Messrs. Vile and Great-singer from Duluth. The matter of the Mesaba extension was talked over in a general way and the plans and bids were considered, but no definite action was taken. The Duluth men with Mr. Carpenter came up from St. Paul last night while the others returned to Chicago. "There is really nothing I can tell you of interest regarding our meeting," said Mr. Great-singer, "excepting that it was for a discussion of future plans in a very general way. We can do nothing up on the range just at present and to attempt to crowd our work under the present circumstances would be very poor business policy. Where men can be worked to advantage, we shall go ahead as soon as possible. The contracts are not yet let and I cannot say just when they will be. We have begun work though and in the city. At Endlow, the new pumping station and other work there is going on as rapidly as possible."

One shipment from Tower to Two Harbors have been begun, but only one will be shipped for some little time. It is impossible just now to predict when lake shipments will begin. The bay at Two Harbors is still frozen over for a mile out.

No Conference. It was stated in a morning paper that a conference between the Duluth Terminal company and the Mesaba & Northern would be held today and that a final and definite proposition would be submitted today. There is no truth in the statement. Attorney General Clapp is not here today as was stated and is not expected. Mr. Simonds of the Terminal company stated to a Herald man that there was absolutely nothing new in the negotiations between the two companies and that there had been no intention of holding any conference today, or at any settled date in the near future.

THE MEETING IN BALTIMORE.

It is Being Held This Afternoon—Mis-statements Corrected.

The Duluth & Winnipeg directors are holding a meeting in Baltimore this afternoon and will probably take some decided action regarding their construction work for the coming year. Just what this action will be is not settled, but in spite of the announcements of a morning paper the people in the offices of the road will be very much surprised to receive orders to proceed with any work on Alouez bay. A Herald reporter was informed at the offices of the company that the announcement made was unauthorized and without foundation. The Duluth & Winnipeg road is as it always has been anxious to get into Duluth and will not abandon that idea as long as any hope of accomplishing that object remains. Mr. Fisher, who is attending the meeting in Baltimore, will spend Saturday and Sunday in St. Paul and will be at home on Monday.

Railway Talk. Surveys are now being made for the St. Paul & Duluth tracks which will reach the York plant.

Capt. Fisk, the government engineer, and the chief engineer of the Duluth & Iron Range road go to Two Harbors tomorrow for a conference regarding work there.

The meeting of the Iron Range directors at St. Paul yesterday was the occasion of great romancing for the young men of the press. The Dispatch had them making arrangements for a wholesale dry goods house, while the most modest detail mentioned in connection with the matter was a general purchase of all the mines on the Mesaba.

AMUSEMENTS.

The Hanlons' "Superba"—Robert Mantell, John Combs, and a large company. "Superba" is not a burlesque, a pantomime, an extravaganza or a drama, and yet at the Temple last evening it drew the largest audience of the season for three hours. It is a trick pantomime, and for its success depends upon mechanical scenic effects. The reliance is well placed, for their performance is the cleverest thing of its kind seen in Duluth for a long time. Nothing seems impossible. People and things disappear and reappear in a way which would astonish a materializing medium. And everything adds to the fun. The humor is a little broad perhaps, but it is varied enough to suit almost any taste, and the action is so rapid that it does not happen to be pleased with any special event it is gone before he has time to think about it.

The company is not specially strong, and need not be since they have very little to do but to jump through the walls and vanish at unexpected times. The plot of the story and the lines have very little to do with the production, and are only incidental to the more important part. Wm. Schrode, however, made a very good clown and Maud Midgely was quite up to the requirements of a leading comic role. Miss West made a good soubrette, and her dancing, though a little suggestive, was rather good than otherwise. The ground tumbling of the Schrode Brothers was probably the best ever seen here, and was a very strong feature of the performance. The performance is just what it purports to be, and though it is utter nonsense, it is a highly elaborate and amusing thing. "Superba" will be repeated at the Temple this evening.

with which Mantell opens his Duluth engagement on Friday evening, says the Baltimore News, is a highly interesting heroic drama. The play is a bright one and holds the attention of the audience through all five acts, and the plot is interesting and well developed. Mantell, a young actor, is in love with Diane, the daughter of the Marquis de Noirmont, one of his largest creditors, and in order to save her from being sold to pay his debt, he turns out unhelpfully and as one of Mantell's enemies, Laurent, conceals a scheme to poison his rival, circumventing the plot to the guilt of Diane. The deceiver comes, however; Diane is proven innocent, Laurent is killed, and Mantell is declared the victor. He is always a sterling actor and last night was at his best.

Women's Missions.

The Presbyterian Women's Mission society concluded its annual meeting yesterday afternoon after a very pleasant session. The report of Mrs. E. McClelland, the treasurer, showed receipts of $750.00 for home and $138.71 for foreign missions, a total of $888.71. Of this $888.71 were received during the year previous.

The following officers were elected for the coming year: President, Mrs. W. S. Albertson; first vice president, Mrs. T. D. Wilson; second vice president, Mrs. W. Richardson; fourth vice president, Mrs. A. H. Carver; recording secretary, Mrs. G. A. Brand; corresponding secretary, Mrs. D. H. Twomey; treasurer, Mrs. Fannie Smith.

Service at St. Paul's.

Quite a feature of the Good Friday services at St. Paul's Episcopal church will be the "Three Hours' Service" from 12 noon to 3 p. m. It is not expected that everyone will receive services, but those who do, will be able to address on the "Words" of our Lord from the cross, hymns will be sung, during which anyone can leave without disturbing those who remain. This service is used in all the large churches in the East and is very impressive.

A grand cake walk will be given by the Georgia minstrels for the benefit of the Brighton club Thursday evening, April 14, at Turner hall, corner of Third street and Sixth avenue east. A number of noted cake walkers will be present, including Billy Ward and wife of Chicago, and George Williams and wife of St. Paul. The cake will be a valuable one and a triumph of the party art, and the question which agitates the minds of our colored friends is, "Who am going to get the cake?" The public is invited to come and see the fun and a good time is promised as the club members will spare no pains to make the occasion an enjoyable one. Tickets are 50 cents and are on sale at Hoyce's pharmacy, in the Patients block, or at the Lyceum pharmacy, corner Fifth avenue west and Superior street. By order of THE BRIGHTON CLUB.
